Federal Officers Point Out
Fact That Punishment
Meted Out in State Courts Is More Severe.

Adoption by the federal prohibition department of Georgia of a policy whereby the federal officers, in all cases possible, will turn over violators of the prohibition law to the state courts for prosecution instead of the federal courts, was disclosed Friday in the offices of Fred D. Dismue, federal prohibition director for Georgia.

Penalties in the state courts for liquor violation are heavier, it was pointed out, the offense being a felony in the state courts and only a misdemeanor in the federal courts.

In the past hundreds of whisky cases have come into the federal court of northern Georgia, making it necessary for extra judges to be assigned to this district to relieve the congestion.

In the future instead of two cases—a state case and a federal case—only one case will be docketed, and this will be a state case wherever it is possible, it was said.

It was learned that not a single case of violation of the prohibition law had come before United States Commissioner Colquitt Carter in about a week. Instructions to carry out the new policy were given to Georgia agents last Saturday, it is understood.

New French Envoy,
On Presentation,
Emphasizes Debts

Official Washington Puzzled Over Significance Behind Carefully Worded Reference to Question
COOLIDGE IS EXPLICIT
IN EXPECTING PAYMENT

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, January 30.—President Coolidge and Emile Daeschner, the new French ambassador, took occasion at their first meeting today to exchange assurances that nations must be expected to pay their debts.

Presenting his credentials at a formal white house ceremony, the ambassador recalled that in the course of their historic friendship, America and France had rendered one another mutual assistance. "Thus paying to each other their debt of gratitude just as they are firmly solicitous, when occasion arises, of paying their material debts."

In response, Mr. Coolidge made reference to French aid to the American colonies during the Revolution, and to American participation in the World war, and added:

"Thus was paid the debt of gratitude and, as you so rightly observe, both governments should experience deep satisfaction in their solicitude that material debts shall also be discharged."

Envoy Pays Tribute.
What significance may lie behind the carefully worded reference of the French envoy to "material debts" can only be conjectured; but when he left the white house a full-fledged ambassador, he gave visible evidence of his appreciation of the country's "debt of gratitude" by a trip to Arlington place a wreath on the tomb of American's Unknown Soldier.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, Will Lead Opposition Against Confirmation of Stone to Bench.

STONE'S DETERMINATION TO PUSH CASE EVIDENT

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Washington, January 30.—Attorney General Stone has shown that he means business in the new case against Senator Wheeler of Montana here by calling to testify before a local grand jury. This action led democrats to force his nomination to the supreme court back to the judiciary committee.

Spate republicans expressed confidence Friday that the appointment would be forced out of the committee Monday, thus bringing the fight out into the open once more, where it faces dramatic possibilities.

Has Enough Votes.
When the committee meets Monday, republicans will move that the nomination be reported favorably to the senate. They have enough votes to force it out. The move will be opposed by democrats, it is expected, led by Senator Walsh, of Montana, counsel for Wheeler, who was largely responsible for shoving the nomination back into committee last week. Once on the floor again—if the movement is successful—there is no telling what will follow. Senator Walsh is expected to block a vote on the nomination, at least until the grand jury here has acted on the new case against Wheeler. The jury begins its deliberations Monday, simultaneously with the meeting of the judiciary committee.

There is also the opposition to Stone upon the part of Senators Hellin, of Alabama, and Overman, of North Carolina.

Would France Evacuate

Query of Luther.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Berlin, January 30.—At a reception of representatives of the foreign press conferred by the government press section tonight, Chancellor Luther replied to the recent charges of Premier Herriot, of France, with regard to Germany. The chief burden of the chancellor's speech was a flat denial that Germany was being secretly armed and that she constituted a menace to the security of France.

Admitting that there might be minor irregularities, he asked: "Is Herriot ready to evacuate the northern Rhineland forthwith after the removal of possible infractions of our disarmament obligations is vouchsafed?"

The chancellor began his speech by revealing the uncertainties of postwar conditions as long as the reparation problem remained political. The London conference, he observed, put the question on an economic basis, and the contending parties were brought together at the green table.

Foundation Is Laid.
"The Dawes plan was adopted," Dr.
Luther added, "and with it the foundation was laid for the economic reconstruction of Europe."

Dogs Lead in Race With Death
To Diphtheria-Stricken Nome

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, January 30.—
Less than 300 miles from his goal, with 700 miles covered in the dramatic race over the frozen trail from Anchorage, Leonard Seppala is urging on his team of 20 Siberian huskies who are carrying the diphtheria serum expected to save the lives of hundreds in Nome.

Diphtheria continued to hold the famed mining camp in a grip of terror, but the dog team, carrying the vital antitoxin, was forging steadily nearer Friday night.

Men, dogs, airplanes and ships are now participating in the sprint with death.

The men are the hardest of the north country—Bill Shannon, Leonard Seppala, Jim Kelland. They stand as fighters with long records of beating the elements and mashing the snow-piled trails.

The dogs are the 20 blue-eyed Si-berians. Their ancestors were picked for speed and endurance. Through generations after generations they have been bred and trained to meet the emergencies of the trail. Today these 20 driven by Seppala are perhaps Alaska's hardest.

The airplane will come from Fairbanks. It is one of two privately-owned machines there. It will take to the air Saturday if possible to join Seppala in his race, and consequently may beat the dogs to Nome.

The ships are still in Seattle, but as quickly as it can be arranged, one or more vessels will start with a million units of diphtheria serum, in an attempt to break through the ice and land the cargo—a reserve supply of ammunition.

Reports from Nome Friday said the diphtheria was gaining ground, chiefly among the Eskimaux living in and around the town.

Other reports that griped were those from the trail.

They told how Kelland had reeled into Hot Springs on Thursday, down the trail his shouts had been heard. Then his team rounded into view, the feet of the dogs bleeding, tongues out and panting, but still struggling on with almost unslackened pace.

Kelland pulled up at the relief station, let go the runners of his sled and passed a word to his dogs. His hands were bleeding and almost frozen from the cold of 50 below zero. His face had been cracked by the wind almost to the bone.

By the time he reached the relief station, he had no complaint.

It was just a matter of minutes until Seppala and his team of huskies
"mashed" away and disappeared from sight, towards Ruby, the next stop.
Kelland was reached on Friday, and Friday night Seppala was reported only 300 miles from Nome.

The best mushing time known between Nome and Ruby is nine days.
Wagers were laid here today that the antitoxin relays would cut this to six days.

The sleds carry 300,000 units of diphtheria serum—the ammunition with which the fear of death and pestilence will be driven from Nome.

BOTH DEFENDANTS
APPEAR STUNNED
AT JURY'S VERDICT

Dozen Ballots Taken Before Agreement on Their Guilt in Defrauding Government on Hospitals.

EACH LIABLE TO FINE AND PRISON SENTENCE

Forbes Took Bribes From Thompson in Exchange for Veterans' Bureau Contracts, Charge.

Chicago, January 30.—Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former head of the United States Veterans' bureau, and John W. Thompson, a St. Louis contractor, were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government in awarding hospital contracts, by a jury in federal court here late Friday.

The verdict was returned at 5:22
p. m., after the jury had deliberated
4 hours and 50 minutes.

Judge Carpenter cannot sentence the defendants until he has heard arguments and ruled on their motion for a new trial.

12 Ballots Taken.
The jury's verdict was reached after 12 ballots.

The vote on the first nine ballots was 9 to 3 for conviction. On the next two it stood 10 to 2. The verdict in the 10 weeks' litigation was reached on the next ballot.

Colonel Forbes was director of the veterans' bureau, an appointee of President Harding. He accepted bribes from Thompson, a millionaire, in exchange for veterans' hospital contracts, according to the indictment on which he was tried.

Forbes and Thompson are each liable to a maximum sentence of two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000.

Elwood Goodman, attorney for Forbes, promptly filed a motion for a new trial, and Judge Carpenter set February 4 as the date for hearing arguments on this motion. Both defendants, as well as their huge staff of attorneys, seemed dazed when the court clerk read the verdict as follows:

Forbes Mops Brow.
"We, the jury, find the defendants,
Charles R. Forbes and John W.
Thompson, guilty as charged."

Forbes, greatly reduced in weight since the time that he was active in Washington, slouched down into his chair and wiped his brow with both hands.

Thompson, a portly man, well past middle age, took the verdict more calmly. His eyes went first to the floor, then he turned toward his wife, sitting nearby, but neither spoke a word.

Counsel for the defense immediately asked for a poll of the jury.

When the court asked defense attorneys if they had any motions to make, they glanced at each other in confusion until finally Goodman

Judgments Are Entered for Amount Against Mannie
Kessler in Atlanta Pen.

New York, January 30.—Adding insult to injury, so to speak, the United States government now endeavors to collect $7,539,860 as arrears of penalties and miscellaneous what-nots of income tax from a boot-legger and a labor grafter who were sent to prison for their sins.

As befits the situation, the boot-legger is assessed an overwhelming majority of the total.

Mannie Kessler, now boarding at Atlanta prison, is billed for $7,448,673 by Charles W. Anderson, collector of internal revenue, who filed certificates of judgment aggregating that amount in the United States district court.
Kessler is the man who had the dubious distinction of being New York's most opulent purveyor of the contents of the cup that bears. His apartments were luxurious beyond the descriptive powers of the Sunday feature writers, and among the fixings thereof were long shelves of books arranged not with regard to the authors, but as to color. For instance, the aesthetic Mr. Kessler, when he went

FEDERAL PRISON PROBE COMPLETED

With adjournment of the federal grand jury Friday and return to Athens Thursday of federal prisoners, who have served as witnesses, all indications Friday pointed to cessation of the investigation of conditions at the Atlanta federal penitentiary, which have resulted in the indictment of A. E. Sartain and L. J. Fletcher, former wardens, on charges of bribery and conspiracy.

Following adjournment of the grand jury until next month, United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager announced that the trial of the two former wardens had been set for February 9. It is understood that Hooper Alexander, William Schley Howard and W. Paul Carpenter, attorneys for the indicted men, will ask a continuance on the ground that they will not have time to prepare the evidence in the case.

In the meantime Chief Postoffice Inspector J. H. Johnson stated that his department is conducting an investigation into the allegation of Mr. Sartain and Fletcher that "a system of espionage, including tampering with their mail and interception of telegraph and telephone messages, was used by investigating government agents to obtain indictments against them."

The grand jury adjourned Friday until February 9, after returning several indictments for violations of narcotic and prohibition laws, but none having a bearing on the prison probe, it was announced.

Indictments were returned Wednesday against Sartain and Fletcher charging the with conspiracy to accept bribes. Both men were indicted

In December on charges of bribery and they have posted bonds of $10,000 each in the two cases, $5,000 in each case.

Another age-old English custom of the Dorset countryside has passed and the "Blanford Bell," which for centuries has tolled twice a day without break, will be heard no more.

Natural Corner Upon Supply Of Wheat in World Market Is Feared by U. S. Officials

Heavy Foreign Purchases in Chicago Pit Squeezing Buyers on Short Side of Market.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, January 30.—Department of agriculture officials, who are watching developments in the Chicago wheat pit, fear that a natural corner in wheat is developing, due probably to heavy British purchases. American bakers are talking of increasing bread prices, while an increase has already been effected in England.

Clayton Morrill, head of the grain futures section of the department of agriculture, is in Chicago now watching the wheat pit for evidence of violation of the Capper-Thacher act, which prohibits manipulation in grain futures.

Thus far reports from the department's agents on the scene show no discovery of illegal manipulation. Books of commission houses are being scrutinized carefully, and if artificial juggling of prices by concerted manipulation appears to be present, the department will act under the law.

See Natural Corner. Market experts at the department are inclined to believe that a natural corner is developing because of the heavy foreign, particularly British, purchases of wheat to meet difficulties caused abroad by the crop shortage there. The result is that the visible supply of wheat has been reduced to such an unusually low point that buyers on the short side of the market, who are under contract to deliver wheat at future dates, are being squeezed.

While no evidence is found of artificial attempts to corner the market, there has been a riot of speculation, in which millions of dollars are being made by those on the right side of the market.

The rise of wheat for May delivery to more than $2 a bushel is having a direct effect on bread prices. Flour is going up here in sympathy with the wheat jump, and the rise probably will be reflected in higher bread prices very soon, despite the fact that current bread is made from wheat bought at half the present prices.

Nothing Can Be Done. The worst of it, so far as the humble eater of bread is concerned, is that apparently there is nothing that can be done.

"I have already made inquiry at the department of agriculture about conditions on the Chicago Board of Trade," said Senator Capper, of Kansas, co-author of the grain futures regulating law, chairman of the farm bloc, and a representative of one of the greatest wheat-growing states. "The officials there are in sympathy with the law and I am sure they are enforcing it efficiently. They have experienced market men investigating transactions and they inform me that no manipulation prohibited by the law has been discovered."

Sold Around $1.25. "I hear it said that the farmer is selling in wealth now with $2 wheat," said "Moss" (Morrill), head of the wheat last summer at about $1.25. Very few held for higher prices. Farmers in Kansas still hold about 25 percent of the crop, and the rest must go for seed. Of course, even though he has not realized the full benefit of the market jump, the farmer is better off than he was at a high price this year indicates nothing about next year. We are going to have a greater wheat acreage this year. If crop reports are good, that will mean overproduction and lower prices. Every crop stands on its own feet. The only reason wheat is up now is because the foreign and Canadian crops failed."

"If measures are not introduced by Monday to carry out the recommendations of the Wheat and Grain Agricultural Commission, I will introduce some bills embodying their proposals," Senator Borah told the senate late Friday.

MARGINS QUADRUPLED BY COMMISSION HOUSES.

Chicago, January 30.—Public eagerness to own unlimited wheat and to reap immense profits ran into something like a stone wall today. The market went as high as $2.05 1/2 a bushel, May delivery, within three-eighths of a cent of the top price record, but only speculators who could put up at least four times as much collateral as usual were allowed to take a hand in trading, and to show faith either for or against belief in a world shortage of breadstuffs.

A jump of nearly four cents a bushel at Winnipeg had much to do with stimulating one lively renewal of buying here in the face of the difficulties encountered from a general enforcement of heavy margin calls.

Commission houses had found ordinary margins of five cents a bushel far too risky and were demanding all the way from 20 to 35 per cent instead. Nevertheless, enough big buying developed to send May wheat whirling upward temporarily and also to put September wheat beyond any previous record this season.

Quick profit-taking on the new surge in wheat prices left May and July wheat at the finish just about where they were at the close yesterday, but with September showing 7 1/2 cents a bushel net advance. One reason given for the rise in September wheat was the relative cheapness of that delivery as compared with May. Apparently numerous traders failed to grasp the fact that

September represents a crop wheat, still in the ground or perhaps yet unplanted, whereas May delivery means wheat actually on hand, available either for domestic mills or for export to Europe.

AUSTRALIA STIRRED BY WHEAT SHORTAGE.

Melbourne, January 30.—Wheat circles of the rest of the world have stirred up considerable excitement and activity in the grain markets here. It was estimated today that $25,000,000 worth of wheat was sold last week. The Victoria wheat yield is estimated at 42,000,000 bushels, valued at $75,000,000.

REGULAR AND RADICAL ROW FLARES UP AGAIN

Washington, January 30.—The dispute between organization republicans and La Follette insurgents broke out afresh today in the house, Representative Longworth, the republican leader, stirring up another round of debate by declaring the Wisconsin delegation, by its activity in the recent campaign, had forfeited the right to participate in party councils.

About the same time, it was made clear at the white house that the decision of republican leaders in the house to exclude from the party organization caucus February 12 members who did not support the national ticket in November had the approval of President Coolidge.

Disclaiming any intention of "punishing" the dozen followers of La Follette who are to be barred from the party's organization caucus February 27, Mr. Longworth said it was the duty of house republicans to carry out the mandate of the people in the last election "unimpeded by enemies."

The republican leader expressed the hope that the insurgents would in time "rejoin the republican party and indicate that they would be welcome if they should see fit to do so." With the exception of Representative Nelson, of Wisconsin, who was not present, the republican caucus was held in the senate chamber, where the republican leader, Senator La Follette's campaign manager, most of the insurgents were on the floor, some of them interrupting Mr. Longworth to ask questions or to explain incidents he referred to. At the conclusion of his speech Representative La Guardia, New York, one of the active members of the insurgent group, called for a roll call of the Wisconsin delegation, defended their activity in opposition to the republican national ticket.

Asserting that the ten republican members at the house from Wisconsin "represent the entire electorate of the state, regardless of party," Mr. Brown continued:

"You cannot read the ten republican representatives from Wisconsin out of the republican party without reading out nearly a half-million republican voters. (Morrill) said that Mr. Longworth insisted that some of the Wisconsin representatives had campaigned outside their state in opposition to republican senatorial and congressional candidates. This statement brought protests from several Wisconsin members, who said the republican leader had been incorrectly informed as to their activity."

Representative King, republican, Illinois, interrupted Mr. Longworth to recall that in 1912 he (King) had been denounced by Theodore Roosevelt "for being a side-bonder and regular republican supporting Taft."

Mr. Longworth replied that the insurgents would have the same opportunity to come back into the republican party that was accorded members of the progressive movement in 1912, and he asserted that if Theodore Roosevelt were living today he would be "an honest and sincere supporter of Calvin Coolidge."

At another point Mr. King interjected to remark that Mr. Longworth was using the house as a "political laundry," and he suggested that it would be better to wash republican linen in a party caucus than on the floor of the chamber in the presence of the democratic membership.

Acquit Atlanta Boys Of Stealing Machine.

New York, January 30.—Ben and Charles Smith of Atlanta, arrested on complaint of Mrs. Alex Johnson of that city, who charged they had stolen her husband's automobile, were discharged today by Judge Taft in general sessions, when Mr. Johnson explained that he had loaned the car to the boys.

Mr. Johnson said that after loaning the car, he left Atlanta for Miami, Fla., on Christmas day. The Smith brothers decided to inspect Broadway and arrived here January 10. Mr. Johnson, who did not understand the agreement, caused their arrest and came here to seek an indictment, which was ready to be returned when her husband recovered the appeal of the boys who had spent their vacation in the Tombs.

Efforts to find the addresses of relatives of Ben and Charles Smith or Mrs. Alex Johnson were futile late Friday night.

Final Rites Today For Two Victims Of Auto Crashes

New York, January 30.—Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, was found guilty by a federal court jury today on charges of conspiring to bribe government officials and was sentenced to pay a fine of $10,000 and to serve a two-year penitentiary term.

Thomas B. Felder, Means' attorney, who was convicted of a similar charge, was fined $10,000. The sentences were imposed by Federal Judge Lindley after the jury had returned a sealed verdict which had found the defendants guilty but recommended clemency. The court denied motions to set aside the verdict on the ground that it was contrary to the weight of evidence.

Elmer W. Jarnecke, who was once private secretary to Means, and who pleaded guilty of conspiracy at opening of the trial, will be sentenced June 30, Judge Lindley said. The court said that he did not wish to impose sentence until Jarnecke's appeal from a bootlegging conviction last July had been decided. Jarnecke was the chief witness against Means and Felder.

To Appeal Case. Felder said he would immediately file an appeal of the express conviction, but the conviction would not be revised by the circuit court of appeals and declared his innocence of the charge notwithstanding the verdict of the jury.

Means had nothing to say but his counsel said an appeal would also be filed in his case. Means is already under sentence of two years and a fine of $10,000 for violation of the Volstead act, but today's sentence, on the motion of Hiram C. Todd, special U. S. attorney, is not to be concurrent with the previous one.

The verdict, returned by the first judge-picked jury to function in a federal court trial here, marks one of many high lights in the sensational career of Means.

At intervals in the past eight years he figured in a series of episodes, ranging from trial for murder to accusations of graft, in which the names of men prominent in public life were bandied about.

The present case got into the courts when a federal jury last March indicted Means, Felder and Elmer W. Jarnecke, who had been known as secretary to Means, on the justice obstruction conspiracy charge. Officials of the Crager System, Inc., and the Glass Casket company, of Altoona, Pa., charged the trio with having obtained $85,000 from them on their part of public health, advising Governor Trinkle that he was forwarding application blanks by which Virginia might obtain a temporary permit to ship oysters into Illinois.

Both the governor and the fisheries commissioner were of the opinion that a temporary lifting of the oyster embargo would result finally in a complete reduction of bans against the oyster from that state.

Mr. Rawlings' telegram came in response to a wire from Governor Trinkle asking for removal of oyster control program formulated by Illinois. Under the temporary permit oyster shipments would be accompanied with health certificates from the Virginia department.

"While the temporary permits will bring great relief to the industry," Commissioner of Fisheries McDonald declared tonight, "it is hoped that with the data already compiled by the Virginia committee attesting the purity of Virginia oysters, complete lifting of the bans will follow the national program of control as sponsored by the Illinois authorities."

ILLINOIS NEARLY READY TO REMOVE EMBARGO. Baltimore, January 30.—Removal of the Illinois ban on Maryland oysters can be accomplished within a few days, Dr. S. S. Winner, Illinois state epidemiologist, told Governor Trinkle at a conference here tonight. Temporary permits to approved plants will be issued by Dr. Winner after an inspection of the oyster packing plants and dredging fields from which oysters are taken.

These permits will be effective until a permanent plan is arranged by the oyster control committee, suggested by Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, director of the Illinois health department, according to Dr. Winner. Dr. Winner and P. J. Quinn, chief quarantine officer of Illinois, arrived here today to make an investigation of the Maryland oyster industry. After an inspection of the local plants tomorrow and a conference on Monday with the standing committee appointed to safeguard the industry, they plan to visit the oyster dredging fields of the Chesapeake Bay from which local packers buy oysters.

JOHN S. WATERFIELD DIES AT PHOENIX HOME. John Southward Waterfield, 37, former Atlanta, died suddenly last Saturday at Phoenix, according to messages received Friday in Atlanta. After returning from the world war he lived here until last November, when he went west for his health. He was taken to Portsmouth, Va., Mr. Waterfield's old home, for funeral and interment.

Share it with a friend. Both Means and Felder took the stand to deny these tales. Felder testified that he had received $5,000 of the sum paid and this as his fee for representing certain of the defendants. He and other witnesses said that $24,000 of the sum had gone to Joseph O. Coster, Chicago alderman and attorney, for some of the defendants. Means was a colorful witness, speaking with obvious familiarity of his acquaintance in high official Washington. Other defense witnesses were Attorney General Daugherty, William J. Burns and United States Attorney Hayward, who said that none of the defendant trial had ever approached them in a bribery matter.

Shock to Felder. Both Means and Jarnecke were convicted of a bootlegging conspiracy by a federal court jury last July 1, for which the former was sentenced to two years in the Atlanta penitentiary, and a $10,000 fine, and Jarnecke received a similar term, with a $5,000 fine. Both their cases are on appeal.

Means was defended in the trial by an attorney appointed by the court, as he had pleaded such extreme poverty as to be unable to hire counsel.

The verdict was a shock to Felder, a white-haired veteran attorney of 42 years' experience, who had confidently expected to be exonerated. Felder and Means had arrived in court about 10 minutes before the verdict was read.

Means, who had appeared nervous yesterday afternoon, seemed confident this morning and was obviously startled by the verdict.

ALLEGED BALLOT FIXER INDICTED AT NEW YORK. New York, January 30.—George Rosken, tall clerk who confessed to manipulating ballots to favor Nathan D. Perlman, the successful republican candidate, over Dr. William L. Slovich, the democratic nominee, in their contest for congress last November, was indicted today on counts of perjury and making false return of election ballots.

Rosken told during the investigation of conducting schools for ballot fixers in Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Jersey City and Hoboken. Examination of the ballots confirmed Rosken's statement that he had cut 22 votes from the plurality of Slovich over Perlman in the polling place in which he served.

Hayward Successor Named. Washington, January 30.—Emory R. Buckner, a practicing attorney of New York City, will be appointed by President Coolidge to succeed William Hayward as United States attorney for the southern "strict of New York."

Funeral services for two of three prominent Atlantans—two men and a woman—killed in automobile accidents in Florida within 24 hours time, will be held here today.

Mrs. Henry Bernard Scott, wife of H. B. Scott, well-known real estate man, was injured fatally Thursday when the sedan, in which she, her husband and J. M. Van Hartlingen, of Atlanta, were riding, turned turtle near High Springs, Fla. She was taken to a hospital at Lake City, where her death occurred a few hours after the accident.

Funeral services will be held from the North Avenue Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock this morning. Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor, will officiate. Interment will be at Crest Lawn cemetery. H. M. Patterson & Son is in charge.

The bodies of H. E. Priest, 41, of 144 Myrtle street, manager of the Lee Tire & Rubber company, and William H. Shoemaker, 37, salesman of the same firm, reached Atlanta early Friday night from St. Augustine, Fla. The two men were killed in an accident near that city when their speeding car left the road and plunged over a 100-foot cliff. The bodies were recovered and the car was found in the water. The former was dead when rescuers arrived and the latter died en route to the hospital.

Final services for Mr. Shoemaker, whose body is at the funeral parlors of Awtry & Lowndes also has been delayed pending the arrival from Creel Springs, Ill., of a brother, Henry Shoemaker.

DR. SUN'S CONDITION REMAINS UNCHANGED. Peking, January 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—There is no change this morning in the condition of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the South China leader, who recently underwent an operation for cancer of the liver.

The previous report from Peking said Dr. Sun had spent a comfortable night that he was suffering no pain and his physicians considered his condition satisfactory.

OYSTER INDUSTRIES CERTAIN OF RELIEF. Richmond, Va., January 30.—Virginia officials are today confident that relief for the beleaguered oyster industry of the state was in sight with the arrival of a telegram today from Isaac D. ## BENNING COMMANDANT VOTED GENERALSHIP

Washington, January 30.—Promotion of Col. Alfred W. Bjornstad to be a brigadier general, was approved today by the senate military committee by a divided vote.

A fight against the nomination has been led by Senator Elkins, republican, West Virginia, who served under Col. Bjornstad in France. Senator Elkins and others who served in the seventh division appeared before the committee to object to confirmation. It was said the committee voted approval of the nomination, eleven to two.

At the hearings were in executive session, and the only announcement was that the colonel was opposed as temperamentally unfit for high command. He now is commandant of the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga., and came up from the volunteers, enlisting from Minnesota in the Spanish-American war.

HUNTERS PEN NOTE AT MOUNTAIN STILL, BLOCKADERS MOVE

Asheville, N. C., January 30.—Hunters near Black Mountain today discovered a whisky still. They left a note to the owners to this effect: "Hunters passed by here. We will not bother you or say a word about you." Returning blockaders read the tip and left this message which the hunters found when coming back to the city.

"Much obliged to you for the tip. Come to see us again. Your friend, Blockader."

The still had been moved in the meantime.

EXTRA! IT SNOWED! NO, IT WAS PAPER, ADVERTISING SHOW. Did you think it was snowing and sunshining at the same time in Atlanta Friday? It was not. The white stuff you saw fluttering down was merely paper scattered over the city by Dante, the magician who is holding court at the Atlanta theater all this week.

Dante was taken aloft for an aerial spin over the city by Frank G. Wickham, of Decatur, who is the owner of a Curtiss biplane. It was not stated whether the paper Dante dropped went up with him in the plane or whether he materialized it when in the air, in the manner which a magician usually employs in materializing flags, rabbits, geese and things out of the familiar hat belonging to "a gentleman in the audience."

Anyway, the paper did carry advertising matter for the remaining performers in Dante's show here Saturday afternoon and night.

ZALINSKI'S PROMOTION CONFIRMED BY SENATE

Washington, January 30.—(Special.)—The promotion of Colonel M. G. Zalinski, of Atlanta, quartermaster corps, to be brigadier general and to be assigned here as assistant to the quartermaster general, was confirmed by the senate Friday, acting under special order at the request of Senator Harris, of Georgia.

The promotion was presented in the senate in executive session. Under the usual order, a nomination is brought up at one session and held over until the next before action is taken. At the request of Senator Harris the nomination of Colonel Zalinski was presented and approved Friday without the usual delay.

Crew Is Safe in Barracks After Terrible 12 Hours Aboard Ill-Fated S-Boat

Commander Bray Tells of Submarine's Crash and Nerve-Wracking Period
That Followed.

Portsmouth, N. H., January 30.—After one of the most hazardous 12-hour "tricks" ever experienced on the New England coast, 35 members of the ill-fated submarine S-48 were safely quartered Friday night in the submarine barracks of Portsmouth navy yard.

Five members of the crew were laid up in the naval hospital, as a precaution against possible pneumonia that it was feared might follow their exposure during a blinding snowstorm which lashed the coast Thursday night and sent their craft hurtling against a rocky reef at the entrance to Portsmouth harbor.

The S-48, which will possibly have to be abandoned, was resting at a rakish angle on a mud bar in "Little Harbor," when it had been almost miraculously propelled through a narrow entrance by three giant waves which forced the submarine off the rocks on which it first grounded.

The storm, which struck with all its fury just as the S-48 was completing a trip from New London, Conn., and turned the undersea craft completely around just south of Portsmouth harbor, was described by Lieutenant Commander Stephen E. Bray as "the wildest I have ever encountered."

Tells Story of Storm.
Commander Bray was in charge of the S-48, on the time of the crash, and told his story as he lay bundled up on a little cot in the barracks in the home of Private and Mrs. James Hensan, caretakers of Fort Stark, where the crew was landed.

The terrific gale drove us on the rocks in the outer harbor at 7:34 last night," Commander Bray said as he slipped a steaming cup of Mrs. Hensan's coffee.

"Instantly we were pounding against the jagged rocks, and in a short time a hole was punched through the forward compartment.

"At times we were tipped to an angle of more than 70 degrees.

"After a heavy battering, suddenly three giant waves, in rapid succession, lifted us completely off the rocks, and by one chance in a thousand sent the S-48 through a narrow entrance into Little Harbor, sort of a land-locked lake.

"There we again grounded on a mud bank, and there we stayed until taken off by men from Wallis Sands Coast Guard station at 8 a. m. today.

"Before we were taken off, the water had leaked in enough to reach the batteries, the lights went out, and chlorine gas began generating.

Forced on Deck.
"It was then we were forced up on deck into the storm, to escape the gas fumes, and following that we experienced our severest exposure.

"Along toward morning the sea moderated, coast guardsmen then managed to locate us, and by 8 a. m. we were taken off."

The members of the crew, Commander Bray said, went through the ordeal "in blue book fashion," but were forced to leave everything aboard when they left—except a pet Airedale, and Beans, a bulldog, the ship's mascot.

After spending the better part of Friday at Fort Stark, the whole crew was taken to Portsmouth by a naval tug.

Naval authorities are hopeful that they can salvage the S-boat.

arose and in a whisper that could scarcely be heard across the big courtroom, said:

"We make a motion for a new trial, your honor."

Too Stunned To Talk.
While friends and relatives of the defendants and defense attorneys rushed up to offer their condolence, Forbes slipped out of the courtroom upon the arm of James E. Easby-Smith, another defense attorney.

"I am too stunned—too amazed to say anything," Forbes whispered as tears streamed down his ruddy cheeks.

from Illinois, and one of Thompson's attorneys, took the verdict with his characteristic poise. He stepped quickly over to Thompson, slapped him encouragingly on the back and said:

"It's not over yet. We'll carry this to the court of appeals—to the supreme court at Washington, if necessary."

Crim Not In Court.
John W. H. Crim, a special assistant attorney general who was in charge of the government's case, was not in the court when the verdict was read, having returned to New York as soon as the case went to the jury because of the illness of his wife.

Ralph W. Potter, a Chicago attorney, who assisted Crim, represented the government alone. He made no formal statement, but expressed satisfaction at the verdict.

The government's case against Forbes and Thompson was built almost wholly around the testimony of Elias H. Mortimer, who admitted he himself had been party to the bribery alleged to have been paid Mortimer by Thompson, the government's "star" witness told of going to a room in a Chicago hotel one day during the spring of 1922, where he found Mrs. Mortimer and Forbes "shooting craps" on the bed.

It was at this time, according to Mortimer's testimony, that he gave Forbes $5,000—a "present" from Thompson. The transaction, according to Mortimer, took place in a bathroom. Mortimer himself kept $1,000, which he described as his "share."

Late in the trial, the defense produced a letter written by Mortimer to his wife, in which he denied ever having mistreated her, and asserted he had "always held her in highest esteem." The letter, according to the defense, gave the lie to much of Mortimer's testimony.

Indicted Last Winter.
Forbes and Thompson were indicted in Chicago last winter following an investigation of the veterans' bureau in Washington before a special committee, at which Mortimer was "star" witness. He charged Forbes with receiving bribes from Thompson in return for which Thompson was given contracts to build veterans' hospitals.

At the end of the senate hearing, John W. H. Crim, assistant attorney general, came to Chicago, where he was attorney general of the United States. Just before the indictments were returned he made a hasty trip to Chicago.

The trial did not start until November 24, 1924. It was decided to try the defendants on the conspiracy indictments. Approximately 64 witnesses were called by both sides and the records show that 612 exhibits were entered.

COOLIDGE EXPLAINS
CHOICE OF WOODLOCK

Washington, January 30.—The nomination of Thomas Woodlock, of New York, to the interstate commerce commission, which several senators are pressing to try to get out of the hands of the president, was explained at the White House today as due to a desire by President Coolidge to give the commission a man with a knowledge of railroad financing.

Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, and several of the southern senators have taken the position that the Potter vacancy should have been filled from the south, inasmuch as that section is without representation on the commission.

Washington, January 30.—There will be no increase in charges for grazing cattle and sheep on national forests during 1925 and 1926, Secretary Gore of the department of agriculture announced today.

If increases are effected after 1926, he said, only one-quarter of the sum will be added in any one year.

NEW SIGNS TO WARN AUTOISTS On Approaching Boulevards

Sergeant S. D. Gunn and

Washington, January 30.—Senate and house conferees will be guided by suggestions from President Coolidge in the preparation of their report on the Underwood bill providing for the lease of Muscle Shoals of the conferees, declared that since the measure would turn the property over to the president, they expected to consult with him in an effort to handle the legislation in line with his views.

At the request of the executive, Secretaries Weeks and Hoover sat today with the conferees in the capacity of observers.

Fundamentally, the chairman said, the bill appeared to be satisfactory, but some changes would be made in the fertilizer section, which was under close scrutiny at today's conference. Cabinet members needed.

The presence of the two cabinet members was desirable, spokesmen for the conferees asserted, because the Muscle Shoals question involved many technical details. The advice of Secretary Weeks was sought, it was said, because the bill essentially was a national defense proposition and the war department had constructed the property.

Secretary Hoover gave the conferees the benefit of his engineering experience and the investigations he had conducted in the production of nitrogen and power.

After today's meeting, Chairman Keyes declared the cabinet officers and the conferees were both anxious to get Muscle Shoals legislation enacted at this session of congress, and the conferees were pushing ahead with the hope of making an early report.

Change Fertilizer Sections.
The indicated that the conference expected to change the profits on fertilizer of the producer from 1 percent of the cost of production to 8 percent, as contained in the original Underwood bill, but altered by amendment of Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee.

In fact, it is reported that the conferees will rewrite the entire fertilizer section of the bill, which was lifted bodily from the Norris government operation measure.

At the time the section was included in the bill, Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, author of the measure, announced in the senate that he hoped this provision would be modified.

Other Changes Small.
Outside of the fertilizer section, the conferees believe any other changes will be of a less important nature. The solons were understood to be not far from agreement on the provisions of the bill, and the plan tonight was to report the measure with the conference changes before the senate and house next week for final action.

Secretary Weeks, who had stated when the Muscle Shoals question was before the senate that he preferred the Wadsworth substitute to refer the subject to a commission, was represented today as not opposed to the Underwood bill and to favor its passage with some modifications.

The conferees will continue its session tomorrow.

Ben Sullivan, an attorney, also mentioned in the condemnation proceedings, stated they had no comment to make other than that given out by General Forrest.

"I have the honor to place in your hands the letters by which I am accredited to you in the capacity of ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the French republic.

"You will find therein, together with the expression of the personal greetings of the president of the republic to you, further evidence of the earnest concern of France and her government in the maintenance and development of the relations of intimate and ancient friendship between our two countries that have been cemented by the trials and sacrifices at once painful and glorious that they have jointly undergone.

"France treasures sincerely the memory of the magnificent effort of the part of the American people, to which bear testimony the graves of the heroes who rest near Chateau Thiers and the Argonne, and the people of an entire region of France, who, after six years of peace, must still labor in the reconstruction of their homes, destroyed by the war, bear deep gratitude to the numerous American donors of whose inexhaustible generosity they still have daily evidence.

History Often Repeats.
"History, which often repeats itself in the life of peoples, has demonstrated that France and America have in turn extended to each other, at crucial moments in their existence, mutual aid and efficacious assistance, thus paying to each other their debt of gratitude just as they are firmly solicitous, whenever the case arises, of paying their mutual debt of gratitude.

"But the effort which America and France put forth in the joint defense of the principles of liberty and independence, which constitute the foundation of the American republic, and which states can be continued usefully in the study of the problems on which, together with the maintenance of peace, the restoration of the world's financial balance depends.

"Daily events show how closely the interests of nations are now interdependent. The progress achieved in every branch of science has done away with the distance that separated them, the world more and more moves toward general collaboration. The auspicious beginnings of the plan of financial organization recently put into operation show how valuable and effective is the cooperation of America, which my government hopes to see

Gunman Leaves Pen, REARRESTED AT GATE

Chicago, January 30.—Walter Stevens, notorious Chicago gunman, was freed from the penitentiary at Stateville, Ill., today after being paroled while serving a sentence for the slaying of an Aurora, Ill., policeman, only to step into the arms of federal authorities who arrested him and brought him here to face federal proceedings to remove him to Miami, Fla., where he is under indictment for conspiracy to smuggle liquor into the United States from Cuba.

It is Stevens' contention that the purpose of the attempt to take him to Miami, Fla., is to try him on a state charge of murdering Grant Wagner, of Chicago, at the Tropical Inn, three years ago.

Stevens maintained that the federal charges have been placed against him to avoid the trouble of extradition proceedings. He indicated that he expected to resist removal to Florida.

Several deputy United States marshals met Stevens at the door of the penitentiary. As soon as he reached Chicago he was taken before United States Commissioner James R. Glass for arraignment.

ACTION ON FARM BILL THREATENED BY BORAH

Washington, January 30.—Notice was given in the senate today by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, that if administration leaders delayed beyond next Monday the assignment of a definite place in the legislative calendar for the agriculture committee's program, he himself would undertake the task of placing it.

The Idaho senator called attention to the number of items expected to come up during the coming week. These include the bills for proposed government purchase of the Cape Cod canal, reorganization of government departments, the Isle of Pines treaty and the omnibus pension bill.

"There are only 20 working days left," he said, "and there will be far less when these things are disposed of."

When Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, in charge of the reorganization bill, said he would willingly lay it aside any time for the Isle of Pines treaty, Senator Borah declared "we can give away territory almost any day."

Atlanta Publisher Gives Advice To Macon Pupils

Macon, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—"Leave editorial coloring to the editors on the editorial pages, strictly speaking. They'll meet it up sufficiently," James R. Nevin, of the Atlanta Georgian, told journalism students of Wesleyan college and Mercer university Thursday night.

"Strive always for accuracy," he continued, "and above all things, be fair. Be clean, be decent; be entertaining, but not vulgar. It will get you nothing and nowhere to be partisan in your news writing."

This address was the second of a series being arranged by Thomas J. Hamilton, editor of The Augusta Chronicle, for young Mercer journalists. William G. Sullivan, managing editor of The Savannah Press, had spoken previously.

Wenatchee, Wash., January 30.—Wild animals from the high mountains driven to lower altitudes by the severe winter which has wiped out their ordinary sources of food have become such a menace that even the youngest pupils of schools in the mountain districts near here are carrying rifles.

The practice was undertaken largely because of the recent death of Jimmy Fehlhaber, killed and partly devoured by a cougar.

Late yesterday Verne Smith, 13, who was attacked by a lynx, shot it with a small caliber rifle and was rescued from the fiercely fighting animal by a farmer who killed it with a shotgun.

Arthur Parsib, 16, had an encounter with a rabid coyote, but killed it.

Newspaper Alliance Offers Laboratory and Antitoxin To Diphtheria-Ridden City

Government Is Asked Only To Provide Navy Cruiser and Airplane To Carry Medical Supplies.

New York, January 30.—(Special.) Upon advice from its home correspondent that a bacteriological laboratory as well as anti-toxin are sorely needed by the diphtheria-stricken city, the North American Newspaper Alliance, of which The Constitution is a member, today offered to furnish all necessary laboratory equipment, the services of a trained bacteriologist and a million additional units of antitoxin to be rushed, if possible, by United States navy cruiser to the vicinity of Nunivik Island on the west coast of Alaska and thence by airplane 400 or 500 miles to Nome. The necessary equipment and serum could be carried in two suit cases.

The Alliance proposal was placed officially before the navy department this evening by Congressional Delegate Dan Sutherland of Alaska, at the suggestion of The Alliance. Under this plan, which the navy took no objection to, a plane, might be sent, probably from San Francisco, as to airplanes are available at points farther north.

Make Trip in Few Days.
The trip to the region of Nunivik Island, it is estimated, could be made in four to six days. It is possible that this expedition might reach Nome before the dog teams now en route from Nenana, although the need for serum would not be materially lessened by previous arrival of the small supply of serum being carried by the dog sledges.

This supply of 200,000 units, according to medical authorities, would scarcely suffice for curative treatment of 40 serious cases of diphtheria and would leave nothing for preventive use. If used for preventive work, the serum of the 1,000 inhabitants of Nome could be immunized, and then only for a period of three weeks.

In addition to the appeal to the navy department by Delegate Sutherland, the proposal was sent to President Coolidge and to Secretary of the Navy Charles D. Wilson in the following telegram:

Telegram to Coolidge.
"Acting upon urgent pleas from Nome, and from Nome citizens now in New York, the North American Newspaper Alliance hereby offers to furnish bacteriologist, supplies and equipment at any point on the Pacific coast upon 48 hours' notice from the government. We appeal for your assistance in obtaining government transportation in speediest possible manner for these additional means of preventing a widespread epidemic. We especially request consideration of the feasibility of the dispatch of a cruiser carrying an airplane and crew from the Pacific coast to open waters just south of Nunivik Island, 400 miles south of Nome, from which the aeroplane could transport the relief expedition which we propose to furnish."

Message From Nome.
"Lamentable suffering business men of Nome wired us today the following results of a survey made yesterday by Dr. Curtis Welch, the only physician in Nome. There are

Dante—the Mystifier.
(At the Atlanta Theatre.)
Dante, the noted European magician, has firmly established himself as a favorite in this city, where he will bring his first engagement to a close with a matinee and night performance today at 2:30 o'clock and the first one at 8:20 o'clock. "Very Good Eddie" is the name of the comedy and it presents the favorites among the players in the kind of play that Atlanta never knew they could do. Theaters get a slant at an entire different kind of entertainment at the Lyric. The Lyric players have arranged a production to duplicate the original one in New York.

"Very Good Eddie."
(At the Lyric.)

The Lyric players' last venture into musical comedy closes with two tuneful and laugh-filled performances today, one at 2:30 o'clock and the first one at 8:20 o'clock. "Very Good Eddie" is the name of the comedy and it presents the favorites among the players in the kind of play that Atlanta never knew they could do. Theaters get a slant at an entire different kind of entertainment at the Lyric. The Lyric players have arranged a production to duplicate the original one in New York.

Keith's Vaudeville.
(Keith's Forsyth.)

Patrons of Keith's Forsyth are being carried to the scenes of the far frozen north, with its glistering snow and ice, the last three days of this week in the scintillating dance revue of Nellie Sterling company, which is the headlining feature of an excellent program.

A special added attraction is the act of Mullen and Frances, Laugh Makers Supreme. Walter and May Siegfried present a special feature in their latest comedy number entitled "Water, Water Everywhere." Al-bright and Harte are highly entertaining in "Melodious Bits," while the Rollettes live up to their billing of the "World's Heavyweight Jugglers."

Pictures and Vaudeville.
(At Loew's Grand.)

This afternoon and tonight will mark the closing engagement of Jim Toney and Ann Norman, headliners and fun-makers, and an all-star bill of vaudeville at Loew's Grand theatre. Jim Toney is one of the funniest comedians to play here in a long time and in the sketch, "A Man About Town," he and Miss Norman keep the audience laughing all the time. Three other fine acts and the feature photoplay, "This Woman," completes the bill.

Pola Negri.
(At the Howard.)

Pola Negri in "East of Suez" will be seen at the Howard for the last time today. It is a picture with the Oriental atmosphere surrounded with magnificent settings and no less a cast. Virginia Fuelle will also be seen in an elaborate prologue and the other short novelties will make an interesting evening's entertainment.

"Tomorrow's Love."
(At the Rialto.)

The final showings of the Paramount picture, "Tomorrow's Love," take place at the Rialto today. Agnes Ayres is the star in the production, which was directed by Paul Bern from Howard Higgin's adaptation of the story, "Interlocutor," which ran in The Saturday Evening Post.

Whitney Hubner's music, a "Telephone Girl" short subject called "The Bee's Knees," and Pathe News complete the program.

Heroine Chases Negro Bandits Mile From Home

BY KENNETH L. EAGON.

They may miss Atlanta when they pass out the Nobel prize and other awards for bravery under fire, but they turned a page in local history Friday night when a small woman ran two negro bandits a mile out of town. And she would have decorated them with a pair of unlocked wrist watches, too, but for the fact that a moonlighting street car conductor was counting the overtime.

Mrs. C. E. Cox, of 173 Olympian way, returned home about 10 o'clock to find a "party" in progress in her apartment. Two ominous-looking negro callers were playing progressive poker with all the valuables in sight. The capable Mrs. Cox summoned her strategy. She reconnoitered about the premises and entered by a rear door. The callers were just getting ready to leave town for an auction sale.

Song Without Words.
Like the famous song without words, the drama unwrapped. Mrs. Cox didn't say anything, but she must have given the pair of down men an icy look that froze the water pipes. They decided all of a sudden to go from there.

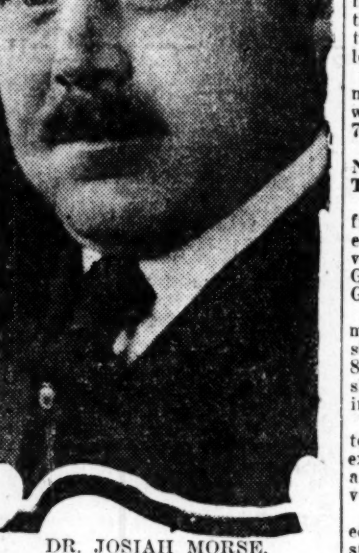

And so did Mrs. Cox. Out of the house, down the center of Olympian way. Across side streets, up alleys, across lawns, sped the negro bandit pair, silently praying: "Come On, Feet!"

"Come On, Feet!"
"Come On, Feet!"

Finally, just when the negroes were ready to give up the chase, they were met by a Whitehall Beeches street car, making ready to drop away from a street corner. They increased their waning speed and made it.

And Mrs. Cox, with the verge of an athlete, made the catch. The negroes dashed up into the front of the car when they saw that their pursuer was about to count months over them. Mrs. Cox called on the conductor to grab the two dark jacks. In lieu of doing this, he kept on counting nickels. The two negroes leaped through a window, taking the glass with them, and falling to leave their even temporary address.

Mrs. Cox, still obedient, ran all the way down to the police station and "Detectives" Warren and Chester picked up the little relay race.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE TO SUPPORT THREE LEGISLATIVE ACTS

Rome, Ga., January 30.—(Special.) Three bills before the Georgia legislature, tax reform, abolition of the fee system and increased appropriation for the Sheppard-Turner bill cooperation, will receive the attention of the Georgia League of Women voters, was the declaration made here at the convention by Mrs. L. L. Hendren, president.

The feature of today's session was an informal debate tonight on the child labor and new before congress. Miss Adelle Clark of Richmond upheld the amendment which was opposed by Harry P. Melikhan, of Lindale.

New York, January 30.—Reports of a firm south spot situation were accompanied by rallies from an opening decline in the cotton market today but the advances were not maintained and after settling up from 23.87 to 24.11 May closed at 23.96. The general list closed steady at net declines of 4 to 16 points.

The opening was barely steady at declines of 11 to 14 points due to overnight selling orders and disappointing Liverpool cables.

May yesterday the market had shown a rally of 81 points from the low level of Monday, and part of the early selling here was attributed to realizing of selling for a reaction. These offerings were readily absorbed around initial prices and there were midday rallies on bullish southern spot news and complaints of continued dry weather in the southwest.

There also may have been some buying on a bullish view of the week end statistics, but after advancing from 23.57 to 23.87 for March, and from 24.12 to 24.36 for July the demand tapered off. Later fluctuations were comparatively narrow and irregular, with last prices 15 to 20 points off from the best, under renewed realizing. Numerous reports from the south indicated a high basis was being paid for cotton in the interior and good demand for practice all grades. These advances raised a good deal of comment and helped the tone of the market, but evidently failed to stimulate much more buying.

Week-end figures showed a decrease of 107,483 bales in the world's visible supply of American cotton, compared with a loss of 110,278 for the same week last year.

ERRATIC MARKET AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, January 30.—The cotton market was erratic today, advancing moderately in the morning after a slight opening dip to a net gain over the previous day's close of 8 points, mainly on an excellent spot demand and on realizing induced by reports of preparations for early planting and a 10 per cent increase in acreage in southern Texas. The decline in the afternoon wiped out the earlier gain and closed the market at a net loss of 11 points on March.

At the start as Liverpool was lower than the day before, the market was first trades showing declines of 5 to 9 points. A further decline right after the opening carried March down to 23.02, May 23.85 and October 23.70, or 3 to 12 points below the close of yesterday. The market later in the morning on reports of good spot demand advanced March to 23.82, May 24.09 and October 23.92, or 17 to 24 points above the early decline. During the reaction of the afternoon March made a new low at 23.61 and October 23.72, but the other months did not drop below the earlier lows. The close was near the low, with net losses for the day of 8 to 12 points, October showing the greatest decline.

The reason why the report from southern Texas to the effect of preparations were made to start planting in that early region by the middle of February and that acreage would be increased 10 per cent weakened prices was because the market has been here before supporting largely the decline from the early sections of Texas that no crop preparations were possible, that the acreage would be reduced and the start of the crop greatly delayed.

Reports from the local market as well as from the local spot market confirmed the early advance of a good spot demand. Spot sales locally totaled 5,555 bales, including only 222 bales to arrive.

Exports for the day totaled 22,422 bales and for the week 183,224. The excess of exports to date over last year has now reached 1,500,000 bales.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM

Rate of 3 1/2 Per Cent for Call Money Is High for This Time of the Year.

New York, January 30.—Aside from the oil stock market was heavy today, but with the volume of business handled and the declines smaller than yesterday. Oils were strong on a further increase in mid-continent crude of from 15 to 35 cents a barrel, according to grade.

More gold was engaged for export and call money again renewed at 3 1/2 per cent.

A rate of 3 1/2 per cent for call money is high for this time of year when usually the rate is downward. The existing high rate for call money indicates plainly that banks here and elsewhere throughout the country have a meager supply of funds which at this time of year usually find employment in the call money market. In the best banking circles here for some time it has no secret that the member banks were either loaned up or invested up to the point where expansion in credit would make it necessary to rediscount at the federal reserve banks.

The weekly increases in rediscounts reported today from the federal reserve banks at Boston, Chicago and Cleveland show that the member banks are now turning to the federal reserve for funds.

The loaned-up or invested-up position of the member banks which make rediscounts at the federal reserve banks necessary plus the heavy outflow of gold increases the power of the federal reserve board to control the credit situation and thus prevent dangerous inflation of security and commodity prices. The feeling in banking circles here is that the federal reserve board is keeping a sharp eye on the general situation to prevent inflation of commodity prices. If necessary the federal reserve board could control the situation by changing rediscount rates. However, the feeling here is that the federal reserve board will continue to use their government security holdings.

When rediscounts of the member banks are almost nil, the federal reserve board, in order to bring in needed income the federal reserve banks bought heavily of government securities. By either buying more government securities or selling off their own ready owned the federal reserve banks could greatly influence the money market which in turn would influence the commodity market.

For the present it is felt that the federal reserve banks are trying to keep money rates at existing levels which are below those of England. The banks are possible to move every in sterling which will help our business men as well as those of England.

Copper and lead prices both showed fractional declines today. Grain prices, however, were all higher.

Pacific mills reports for 1924 a deficit after depreciation and interest on the 1923 crop. The deficit was $3,200,000. The deficit was $3,200,000. The deficit was $3,200,000.

Standard Oil of New York, Standard Oil of Indiana and several other large refiners of gasoline announced the sale of a certain amount of gasoline. The gasoline increases reflect the price advances made a week ago in crude oil prices. The advances in crude oil prices have not yet been shown in gasoline prices. Every time an advance is made in crude oil prices, the gasoline price advance may be expected in gasoline.

Another price cut was announced at Chicago today for scrap steel. Steel manufacturers feel that the price for scrap steel is too high. The price for scrap steel is too high. The price for scrap steel is too high.

Studebaker directors meet tomorrow to discuss dividend action. Wall Street understands that the 1924 annual report will show $8 earned for the stock or twice present dividend requirement.

Wires received here from Houston say that the daily production of the new Texas oil field is now down to 107,000 barrels. The peak reached on January 15.

From present indications it appears that the railroad as a whole will develop a fairly good trading margin for December. The margin is 3 per cent in gross earnings with a gain of 20 per cent in net, making by far the best month of 1924 both from the view of gross and net operating expenses. For 1924 as a whole gross earnings are likely to show a loss of 6.5 per cent compared with 1923 but this loss in gross will be wiped out or almost wiped out by a reduction in the operating ratio. According to today's wire information the trunk lines are now showing a 1 to 3 per cent net gain with heavy drifts which will make the operation ratio high for the time being. But this will only be a temporary situation.

Your Income Tax

Furnished by Bureau of Internal Revenue, U. S. Treasury Department.

Bad debts may be deducted from gross income in computing net income only for the year in which they are ascertained to be worthless and charged off the books of the taxpayer. The necessity for this provision of the law is obvious. If a bad debt were allowed as a deduction without requirements that it be charged off the books, the certainty of its worthlessness would be left open to question. If a bad debt were allowed as a deduction in the year in which charged off, without regard to when it was ascertained to be worthless, such charges could be unduly accumulated.

The taxpayer should attach to his return a statement showing the propriety of any deduction claimed for a bad debt. Where he surrounding circumstances show that a debt is worthless and uncollectible and that legal action, in all probability, would not avail, proof of these facts is sufficient evidence of its worthlessness.

The taxpayer should also show the value of a note and the amount received in compromise is an allowable deduction, provided the debtor has no assets out of which the entire amount may be collected by suit. However, where the debt is compromised, the debtor deducting assets out of which the entire amount could have been collected through legal action, the difference between the amount received in compromise and the amount claimed, whether admitted or disputed, is not an allowable deduction as a bad debt.

Unpaid loans made to needy relatives with little or no expectation of their return are not deductible, but are regarded as gifts. Where a creditor continues to extend credit to a debtor, a debt may not be charged off as worthless. If a debt is forgiven it cannot be claimed, as it is then regarded as a gift, which is not an allowable deduction. A valid debt proved to be worthless is not always a proper deduction. For example, unpaid amounts representing wages, salaries, rentals, or similar items of taxable income are not allowed as deductions unless included in the creditor's return for the year in which the debt was forgiven. The fact that expected income was not received does not decrease the amount of taxable income.

The Investor

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, in Meeting Its April 1, 1925, Maturity, Is Offering a New First Mortgage Long-Term Bond.

PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

Two favorite issues for short-term investment heretofore have been the Bell Telephone Company of Canada's due on April 1, 1925, and the 7s that mature at the same time. Both are debentures, but the strong position of the company has given them an excellent rating with conservative investors. Payment of the outstanding $16,750,000 of these bonds will take up all obligations at present on the company's list.

To pay off the loans and set aside an amount for development purposes, the company now is doing some new financing. It is offering a $25,000,000 issue of first mortgage 5s, series A of 1935 at 98, or on a 5.13 per cent yield basis. The lien under which the new bonds are being offered is a first mortgage on all the company's properties. The $25,000,000 in bonds will be secured by a first mortgage on real estate, buildings and telephone plant, of which the book cost is approximately $88,400,000. As is often the fact in telephone situations, the present value of the properties is substantially in excess of the indicated book cost.

Series A bonds are authorized to the amount of $30,000,000, or $5,000,000 in excess of the present offering, and all series A bonds will be callable between 1940 and 1951 at 103, and thereafter at par. The right to call bonds at par between 1951 and 1955 is reserved in order to enable the company to refund at the most advantageous time within that four-year period.

Mortgage Is of Modern Type.

The amount of bonds authorized under the first mortgage is not fixed at some specific limit, but is made contingent upon factors that indicate whether the company's capital structure will permit additional issues. The total amount of bonds outstanding at any one time must not be allowed to exceed twice the par value of the company's outstanding capital stock. That is the first but not the only restriction.

Subject to that limitation, additional bonds will be issuable for additional property acquisitions, but with very much the same kind of restrictions that apply in the case of new power and light bonds. When the amount of first mortgage bonds or prior liens exceed the capital stock, additional bonds shall not be issuable for more than 75 per cent of the cost of the proposed acquisitions or betterments.

Has a Low Ratio of Bonds.

In studying the Bell Telephone Company of Canada securities it is well to take the situation as it will be upon completion of the present financing, or after April 1, 1925.

The financial statement of the company will then be a simple thing, including nothing more than one class of capital stock and the first mortgage bonds. Capital stock will be outstanding to the amount of $48,497,200 and first mortgage bonds to the amount of $25,000,000. Stock will be outstanding in an amount almost twice that of the bonds, or, to put the thing another way, only about a third of the total invested capital will be in bonds.

Net earnings applicable to bond interest for the past four years have averaged $3,847,276, or 4.07 times the average charges for that period of $946,339. The company has been able to pay dividends at the rate of 8 per cent continuously since 1891.

Low Point Totals System To Be Used in Selecting Oratory Contest Winners

Randolph Leigh Explains That Under Method Used in Naming Winners, Permanent Tie Is Impossible.

In judging the oratorical contest for high-school students of Georgia and the nation, which is sponsored in this state by The Constitution and the state High School association, and nationally by the American Bar association, a system of low-point totals has been adopted as the standard for the contest.

Randolph Leigh, national director of the oratory contest, both in 1924—when Georgia did not take part—and this year, in explaining the workings of this system, states that school authorities may modify the system to suit their own requirements in the preliminary elimination contests held in the various schools.

"Under this system," says Mr. Leigh, "each judge rates every speaker. The judges do not rate the speakers according to some abstract ideal of the perfect orator, indicated by the mark or grade of 100, but simply according to the relative merits of the speakers on that particular program. They are to rate the speakers as one, two, three, four, five if there are only five speakers, but are not to grade them."

Illustration Given.
The following composite ballot illustrates the workings of this low-point-total system in a case where there are five speakers and three judges:

	Smith Jones Sims	Hill Brown
Judge A	1 5 1	3 2
Judge B	5 4 1	1 2
Judge C	3 4 5	2 1

Totals . . . 12 13 7 7 6
"It is noteworthy that in this imaginary case Brown, though rated first by only one judge, is the winner over Sims, who got two out of three firsts. Sims and Hill appear to be tied for second place."

"It is only an apparent tie, however. If the ballots were resubmitted to the judges with instructions to confine their ratings to Sims and Hill there would be no doubt of the outcome, for two of them already ranked Sims ahead of Hill."

"The score would then be: Sims, one, plus one, plus two; Hill, two, plus two, plus one. Sims, 4; Hill, 5; showing that Sims was really the composite second choice on the original and only ballot.

Permanent Tie Impossible.
"With the low-point-total system and an odd-number of judges a permanent tie is impossible. Similarly only one ballot is necessary if the system is used in that logical fashion."

"It should be clearly understood that in the 1925 contest the one-ballot plan will be adhered to strictly. Incidentally, the low-point-total system is the only one which can be used with any degree of accuracy and satisfaction when there are five, six or seven speakers to be passed upon."

"In arriving at their evaluations of each speaker the judges are not to study the orations in written form, but are to pass upon both composition and delivery as the speakers are delivered, being mindful of the fact that this is an oratorical and not an essay contest."

Any bona fide high school student, boy or girl, is eligible to enter this contest, provided they are not over 19 years of age on February 1, 1925, and, insofar as Georgia is concerned, that they are residents of Georgia.

Constitution's Prizes.
The Constitution has offered a series of cash prizes for the winners of the district and state contests in this state and, in the national contest, which the Georgia winner will enter, the American Bar association has provided seven handsome cash prizes.

After the school elimination contests, to be held on March 20, are over, the champion of each school will compete in the district contests on April 9 or 10. The twelve winners of these district contests will receive prizes of $15 each from The Constitution. These twelve will take part in the state finals, at Atlanta on April 24, at which Governor Walker will preside. The first prize, given by The Constitution, is $150 and the second $20.

The state winner will then take part in the zone finals at Nashville on May 1. On May 8 the winners from the seven zones into which the country has been divided, will take part in the national finals at Washington, before President Coolidge, for which there are seven prizes, ranging from $2,000 to $300.

The subjects for the orations, which must be original and not exceed ten minutes for delivery, are the federal constitution, or the relationship thereto of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Hamilton, Marshall, Webster or Lincoln.

Thousands of Georgia students already are interested in this subject, preparing their orations and it is believed probable that this year a Georgia boy or girl will at least go as far as the national finals and may carry off first prize as the best high school orator in the United States today.

HOW TO GET RID OF COLDS AND CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method that Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

There are many people suffering from chronic catarrh who would like to know how they can stop catching cold after cold, for they must realize that sooner or later this may lead to deafness and other serious troubles.

Dr. Blosser, for years a specialist in catarrh is the discoverer of a pleasant, direct method that can be used by women and children as well as men. His remedy is made from medicinal herbs, flowers and berries which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette, and inhale the vapor into all the air passages of the head, nose, throat and lungs, carrying medicine where sprays, douches and salves cannot possibly reach. It contains no cubeb, tobacco or habit-forming drugs.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is effective in all forms of colds, catarrh, catarrhal headaches and ear troubles that may lead to deafness. You will breathe better and feel better after using it. You can get from any drug store a convenient pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effect.—(adv.)

Attempts to conceal complexion blemishes usually fail, and only serve to draw attention to the defects. Underneath most unattractive skins is a clear, pleasing complexion—all that is needed is the proper treatment. ## 70 GEORGIA OFFICIALS HAVE NOT MADE BONDS

Seventy tax receivers and tax collectors in Georgia counties have not yet filed the bonds required of them under the law in the office of the comptroller-general, although they were supposed to do so immediately after taking office on January 1.

Miss Myrtle White, executive secretary to the governor, pointed out on Friday that warnings have already been sent to all these delinquent officials, declaring that if they did not comply with the law in respect to their bonds the governor would be forced to declare their offices vacant and order a special election to fill the places in their respective counties. She stated that the matter would be brought to the attention of the governor early next week, after he returns from his present trip to New York.

The tax receivers who have not filed their bonds, Miss White states, are in the following counties: Atkinson, Bibb, Bryan, Clinch, Colquitt, Columbia, DeKalb, DeKalb, Douglas, Effingham, Elbert, Emanuel, Haralson, Harris, Henry, Jackson, Jeff Davis, Jenkins, Lanier, Lee, Long, Oglethorpe, Quitman, Rabun, Screven, Spalding, Stewart, Talbot, Tattnall, Taylor, Telfair, Tift, Toombs, Treutlen, Ware, Warren, Webster, Wilkeson.

Tax collectors for the following counties have not made their bonds: Atkinson, Bryan, Campbell, Chattahoochee, Clark, Columbia, Dodge, Douglas, Elbert, Emanuel, Fayette, Franklin, Haralson, Hart, Jackson, Jeff Davis, Jefferson, Jenkins, Lanier, Laurens, Long, Miller, Mitchell, Quitman, Rabun, Screven, Talbot, Tattnall, Tift, Ware and Wilkeson.

It was discovered Friday that the state bonds and county bonds for Tax Collector W. S. Richardson and Tax Receiver W. H. Abbott, of Fulton county, had, by error, been filed at the courthouse together with their county bonds. The mistake was immediately rectified and Mr. Richardson's bond of $10,000 and Mr. Abbott's of $10,000 filed with the state authorities.

JANUARY SALARY TO REVIVE FIGHT IN SERVICE BOARD

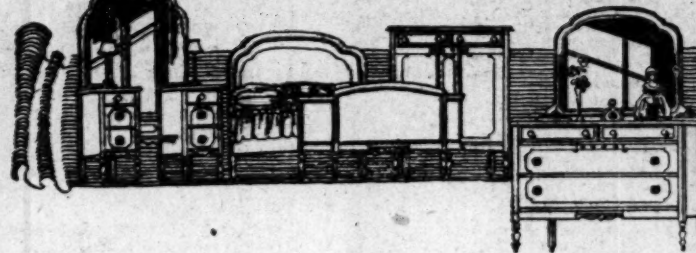

Just who will decide which of the two claimants for a seat on the Georgia public service commission—John T. Boileau or O. R. Bennett—is to receive the salary check for January services is now a matter of doubt.

State Treasurer W. J. Speer has stated that the matter is up to the governor, inasmuch as he must sign a warrant before the money is paid out of the state treasury.

Comptroller General William A. Wright, however, on Friday declared that the decision lies with Chairman Paul H. Trammell, of the commission. General Wright pointed out that the law provides that the governor issue the warrant for these salaries only after receiving a requisition from the commission chairman. Expenses of the public service commission are met through a special fund assessed against public service corporations by the comptroller-general, which is deposited in the treasury as a separate fund for the use of the commission only.

And, to add a third possibility to the tangled case, it was authoritatively stated at the capitol on Friday that O. R. Bennett, claimant to the place, will file a suit in Fulton superior court either Monday or Tuesday of next week in an effort to compel Commissioner Boileau to vacate the seat. Mr. Bennett claims that his term of six years, to which he was elected last fall, began on January 1 last, while Mr. Boileau claims that his six-year term does not end until December 1 next. The commission itself, acting on the advice of its attorney, sustained Commissioner Boileau's claim. But Mr. Bennett has retained counsel and it seems probable, after all, that the final judgment of the respective merits of the conflicting claimants will be settled in the courts of the state.

January Will Close With Busy Social Calendar

The busy month of January will be brought to a close with a round of gaieties featuring the social calendar today. Lovely visitors, who are being entertained at so many elegant affairs, will be central figures at most of the day's events in society.

A trio of charming Birmingham matrons, Mrs. Ford Crömer, Mrs. Edgar Kilby, and Mrs. Carr McCormack, who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wilson-Lawson, will be honored today at a luncheon by Mrs. W. H. Taylor, at her home on Oakdale road. Miss Mary Ann Lipscomb, attractive debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford Lipscomb, will complement her guest, Miss Marjorie Hodgson, of Athens, at the Biltmore tea-dance this afternoon. This tea-dance is one of the outstanding social affairs of each week-end, and assembles a large number of guests, including the college contingent and older members of society.

Mr. and Mrs. William Akers will entertain at dinner this evening for Mrs. John W. Luther, of Palmerton, Pa., who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Artley. Colonel and Mrs. M. S. Jarvis, of Fort McPherson, will be hosts at mah jongg and bridge this evening for their guests, Mrs. A. W. Rapp and Miss Virginia Rapp, of Clarksburg, W. Va. This occasion will assemble the army contingent and also prominent Atlantans. Miss Frances Gilreath will complement Miss Lillian McClelland, a bride-elect, this afternoon. The dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving club this evening will be a brilliant social event. Miss Ida Sadler, a lovely debutante, will be central figure in the largest party of the evening, to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell.

Birmingham Visitors Honored at Parties.

Many delightful social courtesies are being extended to the trio of charming Birmingham visitors, Mrs. Ford Crömer, Mrs. Edgar Kilby and Mrs. Carr McCormack, the guests of Mrs. F. A. Wilson-Lawson. They will be honored by Mrs. Dudley Cowles on Monday afternoon at an informal bridge party at the Piedmont Driving club.

Mrs. L. J. Robinson will entertain informally on Monday evening complementing Mrs. Crömer, Mrs. Kilby and Mrs. McCormack.

Mrs. Ralph Smith will entertain these visitors with a mah-jongg party on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Chip Robert will also entertain on Tuesday for Mrs. Wilson-Lawson and her guests.

Mrs. Irving Gresham will be hostess on Wednesday at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Crömer, Mrs. Kilby and Mrs. McCormack.

Mrs. William D. Taylor will honor Mrs. Wilson-Lawson's guests on Saturday at the Piedmont Driving club.

On Sunday evening Mrs. Charles King will be hostess at a lovely party for the Birmingham visitors.

Mrs. Dozier Lowndes was hostess on Friday at a beautifully appointed luncheon at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in honor of these attractive visitors.

The exquisitely appointed table in the dining room was overlaid with a real lace patch-work cover and held in the center a lovely silver bowl filled with fragrant spring flowers in the delicate shades of pink, yellow, blue and lavender. At intervals were placed tall, graceful candelsticks holding burning tapers and alternating with these were dainty coupes filled with nuts and minis.

The guests included Mrs. Crömer, Mrs. Kilby, Mrs. McCormack, Mrs. Wilson-Lawson, Mrs. Jackson Dick, Mrs. Milton Dargatz, Jr., Mrs. Charles Cornell, Mrs. Chip Robert, and Mrs. L. J. Robinson.

Lovely Parties at Friday Afternoon Teas.

The Atlanta Woman's club was the scene of many delightful teas on Friday afternoon.

One of the largest parties of the afternoon was the one at which Mrs. Norman Sharp entertained in honor of Miss Marion Allen, of Milledgeville, Ga., who is the guest of Mrs. Hal Hausoy. Invited to meet the honoree were Mrs. Leaver Richardson, Miss Lucile Cody, Mrs. Coley Brown and Mrs. Kenneth Keyes.

Mrs. H. P. Seiman and Miss Wretha Shaw, of Cleveland, Ohio, were honored by Mrs. Frank H. Rosier. Among the guests present were: Mesdames Ed Rosier, J. S. Freeman, J. R. Hudson, Rothwell Gunn, J. H. Holcomb, J. N. Watson, Melvin Hudson, D. F. Stevenson, A. L. Slaton, C. D. Hancock, F. C. Groover, W. W. Billington, John Sloan, Z. A. Snipes, George Peacock, Alfred Summers, Hanson Hall, W. P. Harlan, Ed Epstein, Roscoe Gunn, J. A. Carr, Walter Pulliam, Misses Susan McIntyre, Effie Aiken, Alice Kincaid.

Mrs. N. O. Newman entertained the Circle No. 1 of the Witches' club.

Mrs. W. W. Timmie entertained a party of friends.

Among the other having parties were Mrs. J. W. Bates and Miss Ethel Tutwiler.

Mrs. Charles Cooper
Has Card Party.

Friday afternoon was the scene of a lovely card party when Mrs. Charles F. Cooper entertained at her home on the officers' line in Fort McPherson.

The entire lower floor was used and was made lovely with quantities of spring flowers and potted plants, the color scheme of pink being carried out in all the details.

Those invited were Mrs. Dwight W. Ryther, Mrs. W. H. Patterson, Mrs. Martin C. Shallenberger, Mrs. How-

Bridge Parties at Fort McPherson Honor Visitors

Miss Jean Kendrick and Miss Neel Kendrick entertained at a bridge supper at their home in Fort McPherson on Friday evening honoring Miss Mary Virginia Rapp, the attractive guest of Colonel and Mrs. M. S. Jarvis.

Hyacinths and pink begonias were used in the decorations and the guests who played were Miss Rapp, Misses Jean Kendrick, Neel Kendrick, Josephine Davis, of Saint Simon's Island, Lieutenant W. L. Mitchell, Lieutenant Harry Roy Petty and Dick Snelling.

Captain and Mrs. John C. Woodland complimented Mrs. Wayne Barlowe, who leaves soon for Florida, at a supper, preceding the meeting of the Military Bridge club on Friday evening, at the Officers' club in Fort McPherson, Ga.

Quantities of spring flowers were used, combined with potted plants. The guests were Major and Mrs. Wayne Barlowe, Mrs. A. W. Rapp, of Clarksburg, West Virginia, Colonel and Mrs. Melville S. Jarvis, Miss Mary Virginia Rapp, Lieutenant Isaac Erwin, Lieutenant W. L. Mitchell, Captain and Mrs. Glenn A. Ross, and Major and Mrs. Austin J. Canning.

Baskets To Be Given Atlanta Child's Home.

The basket of delicious fresh fruits and vegetables, which is given to some local institution every week by the farmers of the Municipal market, will be sent to the Atlanta Child's home this week, according to Mrs. T. G. Delph, acting chairman of the market committee of the Atlanta Woman's club.

Mrs. Delph will ask the regular market committee from the club to assist in the work at the market during the next week, with others as follows: Mrs. B. M. Boykin, Mrs. Norman Sharp, Mrs. Irving Thomas, Mrs. Eva Corriean, Mrs. W. D. Williamson, Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, Mrs. John R. Hornady.

The market has many fresh farm products, despite the bad winter weather of the past few weeks. Delicious spinach, curly kale, white turnips, beets, Georgia cane syrup, fresh meats, such as country sausage, backbone, ribs, soups, pigstout and many kinds of poultry. Apples raised in north Georgia are in abundance at this time, as well as a great variety of canned fruits and jellies put up by the farmers' wives.

Mrs. Branch Has Spend-the-Day Party.

Mrs. T. A. Branch, Jr., entertained at a spend-the-day party on Wednesday.

Her guests were Miss Nell Candler, Miss Marie Pearce, Mrs. Joe Elder, Mrs. Clifford Ansley, Mrs. Pittman Sutton, Mrs. Edwin Barry, Mrs. Sannett Gardener, Mrs. Fraser Wilson and Mrs. Louis Roney.

Miss McClelland To Be Given Gift Tea.

Invited to meet Miss McClelland will be a number of friends.

Miss Opal Chatham
Weds O. Mary, Jr.

Interest centers in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Opal M. Chatham and O. Mary, Jr., of New Orleans, La., which took place January at the home of the groom's brother in Birmingham, Ala.

Mrs. Mary is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chatham, of Cornelia, Ga., and has made her home in Atlanta for the past four years.

Mah Jongg Luncheon Lovely Friday Affair.

One of the most elaborate affairs on Friday was the mah jongg luncheon at which Mrs. L. B. Joel and Mrs. Benjamin Joel entertained at the Biltmore hotel.

The guests assembled in the grill room of the hotel, which was decorated with vari-colored summer flowers arranged in silver baskets. Following the game luncheon was served at the small tables.

Guests included 75 friends of the hostess.

Miss Helen Harrell Weds B. W. Medlock.

Columbia, S. C., January 30.—Announcement of the wedding of Miss Helen Aiken Harrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Eugene Harrell, of 2817 Wheat street, Shandon, this city, and Benjamin Wofford Medlock, of Laurens, which was solemnized at noon Thursday in the Shandon Baptist church, is of interest.

The bride entered with her father. The matron of honor was Mrs. W. B. Jackson. The maid of honor was Miss Margaret Harrell, sister of the bride, and the two bridesmaids were Miss Lois Taylor, of Laurens, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Alma Richardson, of Columbia.

Dr. W. A. Medlock, of Atlanta, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man; another brother, Marvin Medlock, of Laurens, were the ushers, and Dr. Guy Meares, of Columbia, and Earl Glenn, of Fountain Inn, were the groomsmen.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. Clyde Healm, pastor of the church.

The young couple left for a trip to Washington and other places of that vicinity, after which they will return to Laurens, where Mr. Medlock is building a new home.

"Treasure Hunt" and Dance Honors Mrs. John Luther

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Artley entertained Friday evening in compliment to their guest, Mrs. John W. Luther, of Palmerton, Pa. The occasion was a buffet supper, followed by a treasure hunt, after which the guests enjoyed dancing. The reception rooms were decorated with spring flowers in the colors of yellow and white.

The pot of treasure was discovered first by Dr. and Mrs. George L. Cook, who were hard pressed by Mrs. James Calhoun and Mr. Artley. Mrs. Artley wore an attractive sports model of gray and white jersey and Mrs. Luther's costume was a black and white sport suit.

The first clew of the hunt which was found under a cushion, led to a spring on the lower terrace of the Artley home and upon arriving there the guests found a clew which read:

"It's the nearest place people like to go,

To knock little golf balls to and fro;

Pinned to a tree in front of a nest,

Keep your eyes open, and do the rest."

Meaning the Ansley Park Golf club.

There were ten clues, each equally as attractive, and the last one, which led back to the Artley home read:

"You are nearing the end as all may see,

I'm anxious to know how smart you can be;

Go to my house, and down in the flowers,

You will find the treasure hidden up in the bowers."

The guests included Mrs. Luther, Mr. and Mrs. Artley, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Harrington, Mrs. Donald Jones, of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. William Akers, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Sewell, Dr. and Mrs. George Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Bowling Samssett, Mr. and Mrs. James Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo Barill, Julian Camp, Miss Susanne Smith, Mr. and Mrs. James Peacock.

pastor of the Highland Avenue Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, on Monday, January 19, at 3 o'clock.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Young left for Pasadena, Cal. They will visit the bride's sister, Mrs. W. D. Sunlin and family, formerly of Atlanta, after which they will return to their home in Corbin, Ky., stopping for a short visit in Atlanta.

BEAUTY CHATS By Edna E. Forbes

CLEAN SMELLING HAIR.

About this time every year I receive a lot of letters that greatly amuse me. Readers complain about bad odors from the hair and want to know what to do to avoid them. At first glance, one wants to say "wash it," but that isn't the answer, for a few days after a thorough shampoo the hair may have that same close odor again.

The fault is that we live, these cold days, in overheated houses, sometimes we spend hours and hours every day in the kitchen where the heat of the stove spreads the smell of dish water, baking meat, cooking vegetables and steaming clothes until it penetrates not only the house, but the worker's clothes, her very skin, certainly her hair.

Hair has a curious characteristic. Get someone who is smoking a cigarette or cigar to lean down and blow a mouthful of smoke right into the fur of a cat. The smoke will cling to the fur; I've known it to take 15 minutes to rise completely from the long fur of an Angora. Human hair will keep smoke close to it the same way. Hair attracts and holds odors. Yet because most women let down their hair and shake and brush it well every night, the odors evaporate. But if you spend your indoor time in badly ventilated rooms, and wear heavy, warm hats out of doors, and then don't brush and air your hair at bedtime, you're sure to keep a collection of bad odors and finally to notice that your hair smells close.

The solution lies in brushing and shaking the hair, not in a room that's been lived in with shut windows all day, but either out of doors or in a room with open windows, or one recently aired. Perhaps the hair is worn packed tightly against the head so it cannot ventilate itself. Light hats should always be worn at all seasons.

Worried Beauty: The depilatories you mention will not rid you of the hair any more than the clipping does now, and they may make the growth stiff, just as shaving does. I doubt if the clipping caused the hair to grow on your neck, but if you fear it the

THE CONSTITUTION'S PATTERNS

A NEW AND STYLISH BLOUSE. 5005. This pretty model may be finished with short or long sleeves and with or without the facings at the lower edge.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches' bust measure. A 38-inch size if made with long sleeves and the facings will require 3 yards of 32-inch material. Without the facings 23-4 yards are required. With short sleeves 25-5 yards are required. If cuffs on the short sleeves are made of contrasting material, this will require 1-4 yard.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our Up-to-date Spring and Summer 1925 Book of Fashions.

In ordering patterns write name and address plainly on a sheet of paper. Order by number and inclose price in silver or stamps. Do not mail letter to The Constitution building in Atlanta, but address as follows: Fashion Department, The Constitution, 1188-89 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

only alternative is to let your hair grow long and then brush all the stray hairs up into the mass.

H. L.: At 18 years, height five feet two inches, your weight should be about 110 pounds. If you eat less of all starchy foods, especially potatoes and white bread, and all sweets and fats, you will lose the extra weight in a few months. The double chin and pouch on back of neck will be gone when you are normal weight again. Mary Jane: You will add to your nourishment if you eat just a little more than you want for the reason that you have likely trained your stomach to take small quantities of food. Eat more slowly than usual, so there will be improved assimilation. Take at least a pint of hot milk before retiring at night.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"Glory Be!"

(Being a Descriptive Scene to be Enacted in a Humorous Atlanta Homes Sunday, Feb. 1st.)

The old alarm had sung its psalm Of parting night, once more; The breakfast bell had tolled its knell— When Wifie took the floor!

It was her way on every day The morning news to scan, While her good mate sat by in state

And teased his inner man! She started up and broke a cup And shouted, "Glory be! A sale, a sale!" (His face turned pale)

"A sale? I'm all at sea!" "At Mather's, dear, just read it here— She slid the sheet across; And there, indeed, 'twas plain to read—

"To miss it is our loss!" "For furnishings nice at popular price Their store excels," she said: "And it's everyone's word, they've the cheapest that's good To the very best that's made.

"From the Rapids, Grand, down to Dixieland They ship fine furniture; And whether cash paid or terms are made The savings are so sure!

"Each month of Feb., like a gay subude At Mather's I shall stop And use my eyes in a way that's wise: 'Tis a pleasure there to shop."

So saying, she, in joyful glee, Laid out her shopping plan— And Hubby, he said, "Glory be! I'm sure one lucky man!"

MORNING Joy Coffee will give you more coffee of the same strength to the spoonful than will coffee taken from a can of ordinary coffee. To put the matter in another way, you can use a smaller spoonful of Morning Joy Coffee to make a cup of coffee of the same strength than you would have to use of another brand.

If you get 40 cups of coffee from the average can of coffee, a can of Morning Joy Coffee will make for you 50 cups and sometimes more. You get 25% to 50% more delicious, flavorful, invigorating coffee from a can of Morning Joy than you do from other brands.

Keeps The Aroma, Flavor, Strength

Morning Joy Coffee is packed in a vacuum can which retains all the original qualities of the coffee. A can of Morning Joy Coffee can be kept unopened for two years and then opened, and it will be just as good as the day it was packed. Other coffees quickly lose their strength in the ordinary can, but the vacuum can preserves intact its original aroma, flavor and strength. This is the reason that Morning Joy Coffee gives you more cups to the pound.

Sometimes Morning Joy Coffee sells for a few cents a pound more than other coffees. It is worth any difference that you might pay, not only because the satisfaction of having delicious coffee is worth a few cents more, but it is actually cheaper, because you get more cups to the pound. Specially prepared and blended in one of America's finest coffee packing plants located in one of the world's greatest coffee markets, Morning Joy is the very finest coffee you can buy. Found at all high-grade grocery stores.

FEDERATION BOARD HOLDS IMPORTANT SESSION HERE

First Biennial Council To Be Held at Tallulah

The executive board of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs in session here yesterday voted to hold the first biennial council at the Tallulah Falls Industrial school in May. This action was taken at the meeting held at the Robert Fulton hotel, the invitation having been extended by Mrs. John K. Ottley, president of the board of trustees of the school and presented by Mrs. T. T. Stevens, state chairman of time and place. Mrs. A. H. Brenner, of Augusta, vice president at large, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. A. P. Brantley.

Resolutions, which will be referred to the May council, were adopted endorsing efforts to secure adequate appropriations for the Georgia Training School for Girls; authorizing the president and secretary of the federation to convey to the Tallulah Falls Industrial School, Inc., all the federation's school property at the falls, and endorsing the book, "Story and Evolution of the Flag," by Mrs. R. P. Brooks, of Forsyth. Indorsement was also given three resolutions presented by the Atlanta Woman's club advocating a reformatory method of punishment for the crime of murder committed by minors, the character of such a bill to be worked out in consultation with the children's code commission of Georgia; indorsement of the effort being made to secure for Georgia a penal system in line with the best and most modern systems of penology, and extension of the years covered by the compulsory school attendance laws from the present limits of 8 to 14 years to 6 to 16 years, the change to be worked out in consultation with the children's code commission.

District Meetings.

The district meetings announced for the spring include the following scheduled: Statesboro will entertain the first; Montezuma, the third; Columbus, the fourth; the sixth will meet at McDonough; seventh at Calhoun; eighth at Hartwell; ninth at Clayton; tenth at Sandersville; eleventh at Quitman, and twelfth at Cochran.

Mrs. S. V. Sanford, chairman of programs and second vice president, announced that the program at the forthcoming biennial at the Tallulah school will be built along inspirational lines rather than a program featured by the reading reports. She also moved at the request of Mrs. Lamar Rucker, of Athens, chairman of the University of Georgia club institute, that the district presidents be asked to appoint a committee to cooperate with Mrs. Rucker in making the club institute a success.

Miss Rosa Woodberry, the parliamentarian, stated that the committee, acting under the instructions of the state convention held in Atlanta in November, 1924, made the district by-laws harmonize with the constitutional provision of the fiscal year, providing that all dues are due and payable on January 1, beginning of the fiscal year, and shall be declared in arrears one month prior to biennial council and convention. She also announced that the regulations require all dues paid by March 1, of the fiscal year. It will be noted that this change makes the first new fiscal year extend from October 1, 1924, to January 1, 1925. Miss Woodberry also moved that the continuation committee be requested to arrange for reference a digest of resolutions as orders in force, passed in previous meetings of executive boards.

Mrs. Price Gilbert, chairman of constitutional revision, reported that the committee met as instructed by the November convention and fixed the minor changes necessary to make the by-laws conform to the changes in the constitution adopted by the convention. She also called to the attention of the club women the fact that Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, as a member of the executive board, was the second Georgia woman to receive a certificate of achievement from the Atlanta chamber of commerce, the first award having gone to Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, a former member of the state board, and both lending and prominent club women.

Mrs. B. M. Boykin, corresponding secretary, acted as recording secretary in the absence of Mrs. Oscar McKennie, of Montezuma. She announced that the federation year books are expected to be ready in a week. Mrs. H. H. McCall, state chairman of child welfare, made the motion, which was seconded by Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, and was carried, that hereafter all advertisements be eliminated from the year book and that all reports be greatly condensed.

One of the most important features brought out by Mrs. John K. Ottley, president of the Tallulah Falls trustees, was the election of Mrs. J. Verden, of Moultrie, as third vice president of the association, which was done at the annual meeting held "Thursday at the Atlanta Woman's club. She also announced that Mrs. Walter Lamar, vice president of the trustees board, and Macon chairman of the Greater Tallulah campaign for $3,000, sent in a check for $1,123.94 and a record of gifts of material amounting to $306.85 in value. Columbus is raising $2,000, and Augusta's quota is $2,500.

In connection with the school, a motion was made and adopted that the trustees of Tallulah Falls school recommend that the state clubs secure from local moving picture houses benefit performance of regular showing of some well-selected film for periods of a day or week, with the arrangement that not less than 10 per cent of gross proceeds of such benefits shall go to the local club for the benefit of the "federation" school at Tallulah Falls.

The board voted that according to the ruling of the executive board of the General Federation of Women's clubs, the machinery must not be used for the actual soliciting of funds for purposes other than its own, although it may give adequate publicity to needs in which it has confidence.

Mrs. Albert E. Thornton seconded the motion made by Mrs. J. Sproul, May, that a check for $50 be sent Miss Carrie Green, of Dalton, state chairman of the National Council of Women's national-wide campaign committee, for the raising of funds for the quinquennial convention of the International Council of Women to be held in Washington, D. C., in May. This council represents the organized interests of 38 million women who will have their representatives of thirty-two countries, meeting for the first time in the United States and scheduled to meet here again for 200 years. These women are seeking to co-operate in establishing permanent peace, law enforcement, equal standard of morals, child welfare, federal legislative measures, education and industrial relations.

Mrs. Richardson, director for Georgia in the General Federation, gave a brilliant report, filled with interesting side lights, on the recent meeting of the executive board, held in the national capital, of which Mrs. James E. Hays, of Montezuma, national recording secretary; Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, national art chairman, and Mrs. Richardson were distinguished Georgia women in attendance. Mrs. Richardson's full report will appear on The Constitution's club page, the official organ of the Georgia federation, Sunday, February 8.

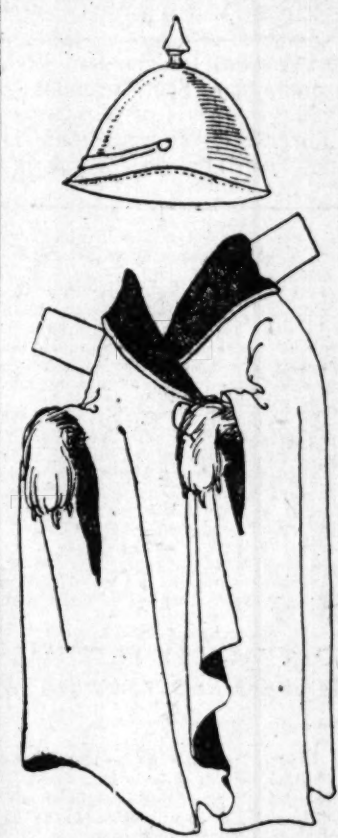

Mrs. Inman's report on Georgia state headquarters announced the resignation of Miss Leona Westbrook and Miss Julia Sparks as her successor as secretary at headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building. Her full report will also be printed on the official club page. Mrs. Brenner urged the building up of the literary and music departments of all clubs. Mrs. H. B. Wey, as chairman of student aid, reported 40 students enrolled this year and $2,100 paid in the fund. She stated that the general federation and other state federations had sent questionnaires as to the modus operandi.

Mrs. Clifford Walker, state chairman of cooperation with Parent-Teacher associations, in her petition urging the simplification of women's work outside the home presented a plan which was approved by the board, and she was given the power to act on the program which would prevent an overlapping of several departments in different women's organizations, and would result in a program of fuller cooperation by all.

Splendid and comprehensive reports were given by Miss Alice Baxter, state chairman of forestry; Mrs. Albert Thornton, state chairman of high ways; Mrs. W. F. Wilhoit, of Warrenton, tenth district president; Miss Lucile Akin, of Jenkinsburg, sixth district president; Mrs. J. W. Gholsten, of Comer, representing Mrs. W. L. Hodges, of Hartwell, eighth district president; Mrs. H. G. Hastings, fifth district president; Mrs. Henry M. Bird, of Bowdon, fourth district president, and Mrs. G. A. Johns, of Winler, state chairman of community service, and Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, state chairman of Greater Tallulah campaign.

Red Ridinghood

"Where are you going?" asked Mr. Wolf, looking at little Red Ridinghood hungrily. All he had for breakfast was an ox and a sheep, and that wasn't any more than a dish of nutmeg for him. "I'm going to visit my grandmother," she answered. "She lives in a cottage at the end of this path. Just beyond the woods. She's been sick, so I'm taking her some cakes I helped my mother to bake."

Then a wicked scheme flashed through Mr. Wolf's mind. "Why don't you pick some flowers for her?" he asked sweetly. "Oh, that's a fine idea," exclaimed Red Ridinghood, who was tired of walking straight ahead, and she forgot all about her mother's warning not to stop. She began to gather the pretty flowers.

"Good day," he said. "I'm glad I met you," said Mr. Wolf, tipping his hat again, and away he hurried toward the grandmother's house, planning how he'd get both the old grandmother and little Red Ridinghood.

(Here the wolf's fancy dress-up cloak he wears when he goes out at night. It's bright green and his helmet is gray. Watch next week to see how the wicked old wolf's scheme turns out.)

Drinkers Blamed For Rum Traffic By Judge Sibley

Blame for the widespread violation of the prohibition laws is laid at the feet of the drinker, in an article by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley, which appears in a current issue of The Christian Index under the caption "Law Observance—Our Greatest Need."

"The real trouble here," Judge Sibley says, "is with the drinkers, who furnish the money to run the entire traffic, and give it more and even active encouragement and support. The heaviest burden of responsibility for present conditions now rests on the multitude of other very respectable citizens, men and women having standing and influence in society, who buy and furnish to others, intoxicants who uphold and screen those from whom they buy, and by their practices and conversation make mock of the law. They not only finance the distillers and bootleggers in their operations, but make them feel safe and respectable."

"We need to think oftener of the wasted wealth, of the broken health, of the wounded heart, of the ruined homes and of the endless trail of crime and woes that intoxicating liquor has always left in order to bring us willingly to forego the excitement or pleasure found in its use, and to support the laws that have come after centuries of experiment with this evil."

Work Begins on $750,000 Cake and Bread Plants

Work has been started by the F. O. Stone Baking company on erection of a large bread plant to add to its present cake plant here, which will be doubled in size, the entire project representing an expenditure of $750,000, and both factories being the largest of their kind in the entire south, it was announced Friday.

The present cake plant on Highland avenue, which now is a one-story building, will have another story added to it, and the new bread plant, also a two-story structure, will adjoin it, the entire business occupying half of the block on Highland avenue, it was stated.

Work already has begun on the extensive improvement of the cake factory and erection of the new bread plant, and the whole project is expected to be completed and the two buildings in full operation by June 1, according to officials.

The bread plant will have a capacity of 75,000 loaves a day, it was said, and products from the cake and bread plants will be distributed over at least five southern states. Both plants will be equipped with all manner of modern improvements, and will employ at least 500 persons.

An added feature in the project will be an athletic field which will be built adjoining the plants for use of the employees. It will occupy a plot of land 80x50 feet. A large garage also will be built capable of accommodating 75 motor trucks for the company's business.

The Stone Baking company, of which F. O. Stone, of Atlanta, is president, is a branch of a system of bakeries known as the Southern Baking company, with headquarters in New York. The entire new cake and bread plant will be known in the future as the Southern Bread and Cake company, it was announced.

Col. and Mrs. Paxton Will Celebrate Two Anniversaries

An interesting party will take place in March when Colonel and Mrs. F. J. Paxton will celebrate two anniversaries at their home in Pershing Point apartment. The occasions will be the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Paxton, which is March 9, and the thirty-sixth anniversary of Col. Paxton as teacher of a Bible class at the Second Baptist church, which is March 26, combining the two anniversaries in one large event.

MONEY COLLECTED ON FI. FA'S HELD BY RICHARDSON

It was pointed out at the capitol Friday that the sums collected and now held by Tax Collector W. S. Richardson, pending a decision as to whether they are to be paid to the county or state, involve only the fi. fa.'s levied for state taxes since January 1.

While the total amount of fees formerly paid by the state for collection of ad valorem and special taxes has amounted to over $40,000 a year, none of this, it is stated, has been held by Mr. Richardson, the fi. fa. money only being held until it can be decided whether the county gets all of it or whether the state is to receive its pro rata share, according to the amount of direct state taxation represented.

The question of whether or not the county shall receive fees paid the tax collector before adoption of the salary system, for collection of taxes, or whether these go to the state, is also the subject of a difference of opinion, but it is only the fi. fa.'s which are involved in the amount Mr. Richardson is retaining.

GRIFFITH STANDS TRIAL WEDNESDAY ON PROH CHARGE

The Fulton county grand jury Friday day returned a new indictment against M. C. Griffith for operation of a still last August at 450 Peachtree street, near the Doctors' building.

Griffith is the man recently charged with operating a still in the palatial residence at 103 Ponce de Leon avenue. He will appear Wednesday for trial before Judge John D. Humphries, according to announcement from Solicitor General John Boykin's office.

Griffith was indicted Tuesday on three counts—two charging misdemeanors in possessing liquor and still apparatus and a third a felony in operating a still.

Dr. Stone will be the guest while in Atlanta of Joseph H. Hirsch and Milton Liedman, prominent Atlantans. Mr. Hirsch is chairman of the trustees of the Steiner clinic. The noted New York specialist, it is said, has been anxious to visit the local cancer institution for many months, having been greatly impressed with reports of its equipment and success in handling the malignant disease.

Dr. Stone will spend the entire week.

Woman's Club of Marietta And Decatur P. T. A. Join Fight on Outlaw Pistol

Judge Thomas, of Southern Circuit, and Dr. Goss Tell of "Pistol-Toting" Evils.

The Constitution's fight to outlaw the pistol was given further impetus Friday by several organizations and laymen.

The Women's club, of Marietta, at a recent meeting unanimously endorsed the campaign against indiscriminate carrying of pistols. Resolutions passed by members of this organization said:

"The Atlanta Constitution has taken another constructive step toward a return to that sane and safe standard of morality—old-fashioned, if you will—which is so appallingly lacking in these days of that 'personal liberty' which is far better defined as licentiousness. Why not take another step in the same direction and inaugurate a red-hot drive against the printing of that destructive stuff which is now appearing in many of our publications? The Constitution's fight on the pistol, however, surpasses all other such campaigns. It cannot help but be crowned with success by legislation against all concealed weapons."

P. T. A. Lauds Drive.

It was also announced Friday that the Parent-Teacher association of the Senior High school of Decatur had passed resolutions endorsing the Constitution's fight on the "terrible menace of the pistol."

At Moultrie, Ga., in giving a 12-month sentence to Leonard Scott, negro, the only person convicted at the present term of Colquitt superior court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, Judge W. E. Thomas, of the southern circuit, characterized the pocket pistol "as an implement of murder and a menace to civilization."

In some counties, removed from the cities," Judge Thomas said, "public sentiment has built a wall against the presence of the pistol, and the laws against having pistols have been rigidly and successfully enforced; homicides have almost discontinued."

"We recall in days past when in one county in Georgia the use of pistols was more general, that there were nine indictments for murder tried in one session of court. In the same county today public sentiment has practically banished the pistol, and an indictment for murder is rare."

"The situation growing out of 'pistol-toting' in the large cities is nothing short of appalling. Dense populations afford a shelter for murderers, robbers, burglars and thieves. Take Fulton county, for instance. If every pistol was removed from that county, Atlanta—in so far as a crime of violence are concerned—would be a new and different city. The burglar, the robber and the thief without his pistol loses his false courage."

Advocate Suggestion.

Advocating the disfranchisement of persons convicted of felony or robbery in any form and the withdrawal of the right to bear arms by these persons, Dr. J. H. Goss, Sr., retired Atlanta physician, Friday added his voice to The Constitution's crusade against crime through the unrestricted sale and advertisement of pistols.

"I would oppose an infringement on the constitution of the United States in Georgia's fight against the hidden weapons," Dr. Goss said. "Georgia has the right to decide who her citizens are, and as the constitution grants the right of citizens to arms, Georgia will have to devise a means of disfranchising criminals to curb crime. I suggest that when a person is convicted of a felony or robbery in any form, his right to have a gun even in his home be withdrawn and that heavy penalties be meted out for infringement of the law."

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about three weeks I could see an improvement. I continued the treatment and after using three cakes of Soap and two boxes of Ointment I was healed."

CHATTANOOGA DELAYS OPENING W. & A. FIGHT

Chattanooga's city council has postponed until February 16 its contemplated action to condemn a street right-of-way through the Georgia-owned railroad terminals in that city, according to information received Friday by Attorney General George M. Napier.

Georgia is preparing to fight this move on the part of the Tennessee city and before the date for final action arrives will have taken necessary legal steps, Mr. Napier stated.

Colonel W. L. Frierson, prominent Chattanooga attorney, who has been retained to assist the state of Georgia in any litigation which may arise on this controversy, was watching the interests of the state when the Chattanooga city council met Friday, it was stated. Georgia will immediately apply for an injunction and will carry the case to the highest court necessary to protect the state's interests.

Word also was received at the capital Friday that a bill had been introduced in the Tennessee legislature, now in session at Nashville, seeking to give the city of Chattanooga the right of eminent domain so that it may condemn for public use property that is already in public service. It is evident that this measure is aimed at the Georgia-owned W. & A. properties, it was stated. Attorney General Napier said the state would meet this or any other emergency which may arise. While he did not intimate the line the state would take, it is generally understood that an effort would be made to secure an injunction in the federal court, a method which was used successfully in defeat of a previous attempt by Chattanooga to enforce similar condemnation proceedings.

BOLL WEEVIL ALARM SOUNDED BY WARD

Athens, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Declaring that boll weevils are more prevalent this year than in 1922, although farmers are ignoring the menace that faces them this year, the address of E. G. Ward, weevil-control expert, of Athens, was the feature of today's session of Farmers' week conference being held here.

Have More Weevils.

"We had more weevils go into winter headquarters last fall than we did in the fall of 1922 and unless we have zero or near zero weather before the winter is over we will have a great many to come out of winter quarters," Mr. Ward said.

Continuing discussion of the subject of boll weevil control, Mr. Ward said that "it will be advisable to urge the farmers to look for weevils before squares appear, and begin to use control measures if weevils are present. Pre-square control measures that can be used are: A family having only one or two acres may pick off all the weevils every day and keep them in a small jar with slightly larger acreage may use a home-made liquid mixture but those having very large acreage will need the dust."

Advices Calcium Arsenate.

"If weevils are thick late in the summer, the only satisfactory direct control measure is dusting with calcium arsenate. Hand picking and the use of home-made liquid mixtures will not be effective after squares appear."

H. C. Appleton, field crop specialist, State College of Agriculture; L. V. Davis, supervisor fertilizer investigation, State College of Agriculture; George A. Crabbe, State College of Agriculture; Ernest Camp, Monroe, Ga.; G. F. Hinnicut, Atlanta, were on today's program.

Home Conference Closes.

In the home demonstration section Friday, Dr. Bernard W. Carey, director of the Athens child health demonstration; Mrs. Annie Mae Wood Bryant and Mr. Abernethy, of the State Board of Health, were scheduled to make addresses. The home demonstration conference has been one of the best ever held by that department. That conference closed Friday morning.

The closing session of the Farmers' conference will be held Saturday.

CLOCK STRIKES FOR 17 MINUTES EVERY HOUR

Macon, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Macon's town clock went wrong last night. The clock, taken from the old courthouse, occupies a place on top of the new courthouse. It began to strike at midnight and for 17 minutes wouldn't stop. Then it took a rest until 1 a. m. Seventeen more minutes of striking continued. At 2 a. m. and every hour after that until a local clock maker showed up the clock kept up the same program.

Folks in the downtown district, awakened from a sound sleep, or the night owls just getting in, kept police headquarters and the sheriff's office busy answering inquiries.

DU BOSE HEYWARD TO SPEAK MONDAY AT AGNES SCOTT

Decatur, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—DuBose Heyward, of Charleston, S. C., nationally known southern poet, will be resident poet and member of the English at Agnes Scott college beginning Monday, it was announced today by J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott. A lecture, "The South in Contemporary Poetry," will be given at the college auditorium at 8:30 o'clock Monday night.

Mr. Heyward is recognized as one of the leaders in southern poetry, and his "Carolina Chansons," published in collaboration with Hervey Allen, and his recent "Skylines and Horizons" have been received with enthusiasm and accorded high praise by leading critics.

Mr. Heyward organized the Charleston Poetry society, which has brought leading literary lights from all parts of the United States to Charleston for addresses.

The lecture Monday night is public. The lecture Monday night is public, Dr. McCain announced.

Views That Depict Force and Depth of Georgia Floods

RELIEF CONTINUES AS RIVERS FALL

Townsend, Ga., January 30.—Delayed a day in the distribution of food because of bad conditions between here and Cedar Point, where the Louise A. relief boat from Savannah, landed with additional supplies yesterday, volunteers and Red Cross workers today perfected arrangements for the transportation of the cargo.

There is a section of Dixie highway, recently worked over, that flood conditions have rendered impassable in automobiles. Mules and teams were stationed at this point today to tow trucks across.

The volunteer committee today arranged for a regional report of the flood situation from surrounding points in order to determine whether or not additional water could be expected at this place tomorrow or Sunday.

The waters were reported slowly receding this morning. Health conditions were encouraging today. Only a few cases of influenza, prevalent at Cedar Point, were reported. All danger of further rising waters, predicted here for the week-end, has passed.

This announcement, which cheered the homes of flood sufferers in this vicinity, was made this morning following a survey by telephone of the entire district, and the observing of a five-foot drop at Lumber City, a source of the supply for the water which covers blanketlike the entire countryside.

A. B. & A. ROADS ALL OPEN.

Announcement was made in Atlanta Friday by officials of the A. B. & A. railroad that all its lines are open and travel has resumed a normal tone. All trouble caused by the recent floods has been cleared up and trains are running through to all points on our own tracks," the statement said.

BRUNSWICK-SAVANNAH BOAT LINE ESTABLISHED.

Brunswick, Ga., January 30.—The first of what is expected to be a permanent water communication between Savannah and Brunswick was recorded today when the steamer Emerline left here at an early hour and expected to reach Savannah between 3:30 and 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The steamer carries passengers and freight. A five-minute stop was scheduled at Darien.

The installation of the water-travel route followed the impassable rail conditions as a result of the flood.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED AT VALDIA.

Valdosta, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—The Altamaha river here is falling very fast and the Georgia & Florida railroad is working more than 300 men fixing the tracks so they can run trains through on all lines by Sunday.

T. W. Walden reports that he will be operating Twins Bluff ferry by Monday and this will give travelers through here a road to Florida.

Many Topics of Value Found In Current Issue Of Trade Board Paper

"Winter's glow on Georgia's capital is the theme of a unique cover design on the February issue of The City Builder. The cover is made from an original photograph by Walton Reeves, local photographer, and portrays the majestic dome of the state house against the radiant dawn of the coming day."

The inaugural address of W. R. C. Smith, new president of the chamber of commerce, is a feature offering of the magazine. George M. Sparks persuades S. G. McLenahan, secretary of state, to talk a bit about the traditions of the state capital and from this interview Mr. Sparks writes an informing and entertaining story.

"The Agricultural Situation in Georgia" is the title of a leading article by J. Phil Campbell, of the State College of Agriculture. Dr. Campbell thinks that Georgia will have a difficult time with the boll weevil in 1923 because of relaxed efforts to fight them in 1922 and because of an apparently mild winter, but he sees the hope of a diversified crop year and of improved dairying and livestock methods.

Walter G. Cooper writes an engaging article on Sam D. Jones, well known Atlantan, stressing the steady climb of this business man. This is the second in a series of articles which Mr. Cooper is writing. Major A. A. Case, of Georgia Tech, discusses the need of training Georgians to develop Georgia.

Fred T. Newell gives a digest of the recent survey of the city made by Lamar Lyndon. Milt Marvels, of Domestic Engineering, writes about the success of the Stephenson company, of Atlanta, basing his article on the ethical standards of the company. Many other interesting articles appear.

GEORGIA FLOOD AREA GETS TYPHOID VACCINE

In order to forestall a possible epidemic of typhoid fever in the flood areas of south Georgia, two consignments of anti-typhoid vaccine have been sent from the state health department by special delivery mail, it was announced Friday. The consignments were sent by different routes, one by way of Savannah and the other by Brunswick, to assure arrival of at least one at the affected territory, despite bad conditions on some roads.

H. C. Woodfall, chief engineer of the board, the superintendent of nurses and one nurse on the staff of the board have been working this week in the area around Townsend and in Screven county, in an effort to forestall a disease epidemic by guarding against pollution of waters and dangerous infected drinking supplies.

Glowing, golden droplets of liquid fire, a new and spectacular type of electrical discharge were recently discovered.

Picture in upper left shows water breaking through the fill of the new $600,000 bridge being built across the river connecting Savannah with South Carolina; upper right shows that the fill has been entirely washed out. Picture in lower left is of a two-story residence at Newton, Ga., with outhouses practically submerged; lower right shows a store in the business section of Newton which is all but covered by the waters from Flint river. Stock of goods in this store was complete loss.

TRAFFIC DEMORALIZED BY STORMS IN EAST

New York, January 30.—Manhattan Island was blocked today, by both land and sea. Transportation officials said it was New York's worst traffic jam in 35 years.

Elizabethtown, N. J., reported New England and northern New York, piling roads high with snows, and floods in the south-land made virtually all main line trains bound for the city far behind their schedules.

On the water, a freak wind that developed a velocity of 60 miles an hour churned great blocks of ice against Manhattan shores in sufficient number and force to disorganize traffic in the North and East Rivers and in Long Island Sound. Harbor traffic, cut to the minimum, barely moved.

In strange contrast to weather conditions reported in immediately adjacent communities the city itself enjoyed a day of brilliant sunshine, with the temperature comparatively mild. The city's storm, starting in blustery snow flurries and ending in driving sweeps of bitterly cold rain, spent itself during the night.

All important trains, including such special as the Twentieth Century Limited of the New York Central, and the Broadway Limited of the Pennsylvania, were behind their schedules. The first of several sections of the Century, due at 9:30 this morning, was expected at the Grand Central terminal before 11 o'clock tonight. Other trains of the Lackawanna, Reading, Erie, Jersey Central, New York, Seaboard and Hartford, and West Shore roads were from a few minutes to eight and nine hours late. Trains from the water-soaked north, in some instances, were from 24 to 30 hours behind time.

Railroad officials had not estimated tonight the sums that must be paid patrons of de luxe trains which guarantee return of extra fares to all ticket holders in event the trains are as late as they were today. It was estimated, however, that the aggregate would run into many thousands of dollars. Passengers on about a dozen extra fare limited trains of the New York Central alone must be repaid these sums.

Sound steamers cluttered up the harbor, as they wouldn't trust their sleek sides to the ice floes. Ferries carrying processions of Manhattan-bound trucks loaded with food stuffs suffered long delays, as did innumerable car floats.

The propellers of three ferry boats were sheared off by the ice. Others had to be rescued by tugs. One boat from Jersey City to Manhattan took two and a half hours for what ordinarily is a few minutes' over-river glide. The wind died down in the afternoon, however, and the ice floes were more widely dispersed.

Weather officials promised watercraft an easier time of it from now on.

FORT VALLEY FESTIVAL TO BE HELD TWO DAYS

Fort Valley, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—It has been decided to hold the annual Peach Blossom festival through days, instead of one, as formerly, it is announced here by Leighton Shepard, chairman.

The dates will be determined by experts who will advise about the time in full bloom.

GEORGIA CITIZEN IS FOUND DEAD IN LAKE LAND

Lakeland, Fla., January 30.—Advices received here today are that Lewis Keen, who committed suicide here yesterday, was a resident of Atkinson, Ga., and that relatives are en route from that place to take charge of the body.

Keen, who had been visiting in Lakeland, ended his life yesterday by slashing an artery in his arm. He was about 50 years old. Letters found on the body told of the recent death of his wife.

HAS NO CLOSE RELATIVES.

Atkinson, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Lewis Keen, reported to have been found dead at Lakeland, Fla., has no close relatives here, and it is understood that the body will be carried to Arcadia, Fla., for interment.

REAL ESTATE MEN PREDICT BIG YEAR

Columbus, Ga., January 30.—With prospects generally bright for a big business year in Georgia in 1923, as viewed by prominent realty men here to attend the annual convention of the Georgia Real Estate association, which opened for its two-day session at the Country club this morning at 10 o'clock, one of the most active years in realty and industrial development is freely predicted. An optimism that is visibly spontaneous marks the spirit of those attending the sessions.

At the opening with Ben D. Watkins, of Atlanta, president of the association, presiding, the welcome address was made by Mayor J. H. Dimon, in which he, in his characteristic cordial manner, bid the visitors feel at home in Columbus. The response was by A. S. Adams, president of the Atlanta real estate board.

The opening session was well attended, practically every section of the state being represented. President A. O. Blackmar, of the Columbus real estate board, stated early Friday that indications are the sessions during the two days will be attended by about 75 visitors.

Following the opening the convention members launched immediately into the business of the meeting and before the noon recess at 1 o'clock for luncheon at the club, reports of the president and secretary and treasurer had been heard.

There were also addresses on "The State Association," by W. W. Rose, of Orlando, Fla., past president of the Florida association and vice president of the national association, "Selling Methods of Homes," was discussed by Francis Calhoun, of Augusta, and "Best Selling Methods of Farms" was the subject of general discussion.

Visitors are expected to have an opportunity to see something of the city and of Fort Benning Saturday afternoon, as the closing session will be held about noon. All sessions are being held at the Country club.

Mint Gets Calls For Confederate Memorial Coins

Washington, January 30.—With the minting of the first of the Stone Mountain Memorial half dollars by the Philadelphia mint, the mint bureau has suddenly been flooded with requests for the souvenir coins.

The number of requests has been so great in the last several days that Director Grant was prompted to issue a notice that the coins must be purchased from the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association, of Atlanta, Ga. All of the coins will be delivered to the association, which will use the proceeds of the sale, above the half-dollar value, to aid in completing the memorial.

SALE OF COINS IS BEGUN HERE.

The first 1,000 coins minted were placed in serially numbered envelopes and were sent to Atlanta officials of the association. They have reached here, it was announced Friday, and their sale has begun here already. The whole 5,000,000 coins authorized in the special act of congress will be sold by the association, which will pay the value of each coin, fifty cents, and will sell for as much above that price as the coin will bring, keeping all over the 50-cent value of each piece, according to the agreement.

Proceeds of the sale will be applied to construction of the gigantic Confederate memorial at Stone Mountain. Local headquarters of the association are receiving offers for the coins from all parts of the United States in each mail, it was announced Friday night.

"Horses must go!" is now the slogan of Chicago, except on a few specified streets where they will not interfere with the traffic.

Red Hair and Blue Sea

By Stanley R. Osborn.

INSTALLMENT LX.
RESCUED.

Horror sat upon Ponape's visage; ludicrous, yet doubly intense by the inadequacy of its expression.

In his last efforts to seize the woman he so greatly loved, this man had taken desperate risks. Until he had Palmyra safe here on the islet, he could have expected, accepted failure. But once here, victory had seemed complete; as if she were already far at sea, no trail left behind.

He stood now, blinking at her as one newly awakened, bewildered. He stared at the boats as if it were impossible to believe.

"Alone," he muttered, "I might still slip m' cable, win clear. Alone!" That word stung him into life. He grew white with anger. "Y' shan't have her," he raged. "I've schemed for her, fought for her, won her. Y' shan't have her. I tell y' she's mine—mine!"

His voice was anguish in its revelation. Ponape Burke was afraid. But his feeling for this girl so mastered him that it was physically beyond his power to abandon her.

He gazed at the enemy in a terrible agitation. What should he do to save her? What should he do?

He snatched forth the revolvers. He could battle for her. Yes, kill half a dozen of those Japs. But—to what avail? Fighting or no, he'd lose her. And in the first case only prison walls would withhold him; but in the second she would remain on this earth alive, and he—would be dead. He slipped the weapons back, all his being in rebellion. "Palmyra," he cried, "life without y' now just ain't possible. I couldn't stand it so."

Was there no way, no way out? He stared at her, blank, despairing. But at last, slowly, then with a rush, something swept over his face—something new. From her hopelessness he changed into a questioning; stricken, it was tinged with a fearsome elation; ended in such a look as set Palmyra Tree a-tremble.

Emotion which might have exalted another countenance could only distort those features: Yet, darkly repellent, they should have shone with some dim reflection of that light which glorifies the faces of the pictured martyrs. For, as these had welcomed sacrifice in the faith that promised life eternal, so was this limited being rising to the one vague hope at which his soul could grasp in a love faltering not at the grave itself.

"I can't go on without you," he burst forth, "and they won't let me go on with you. But if I can't live, I can die—with you."

He broke into the old laugh.

And now, in the exaggeration of its note, Palmyra understood why it had always struck her as in some way so intimidating.

"Don't y' see, girl?" he shouted. "Don't y' see?" His voice vibrated between a body in terror, a spirit uplifted. "Olive here wasn't afraid t' die for you; them women of Tanna could die t' be with their man. They believed; was game t' take a chance. They was good-game sports."

His gesture was ever more vehement.

"In this here life nobody'll let me have you. I never had a look in—never shall. But how, how I say, about what's maybe on beyond? Seems reasonable like and just, if it's me as puts y' across, it'd be me as was give the say-so there."

He was strangely like some street evangelist, stridently emotional, exhorting unto repentance and belief.

"Otherwise, girl, I'm done. This is the only way I've got a show. Nothing t' lose; everything t' gain. I'd be yellow t' the heart if I didn't try; was afraid t' take my chance. I may draw a blank. Or, by the everlasting, I may draw—you!"

He leered at her in an insane triumph.

The boats, as one frantic glance told his victim, were still too far to aid. The natives all had fled. Only Olive remained; bound hand and foot, the rope from the noose dragging across the limb above.

Ponape Burke cackled into a pained mirth. "Tanna?" he marveled. "And I thought Tanna a big gamble; big risks for a big stake." He was superlatively contemptuous. "But I see bigger now. It'll be the whole blame heavens where these kanakas go."

"You," she shouted out after an interval. "You, and me and—him."

Olive was writhing to sunder the semit cords which bound his arms. "You," cried Burke, "the best woman a man ever had; him, the best slave as ever was; me, the best damn man that ever broke into hell t' raise hell there."

He whipped out one of his revolvers. "If we don't weigh anchor soon, we'll have t' take some of them Japs with us t' spoil our ship's company." He was calm now with the deadly calm of the fanatic. "Stand by," he commanded. "Let's—put t' sea."

But instantly Olive—blood dripping from wrists torn in his struggle—hurled herself against the madman. The concussion of his bulk threw Ponape back. The bullet which would have pierced Palmyra's brain flew harmlessly into space.

The islander, by a supreme effort, snapped his bindings. He seized the other. He crushed his master to him like a gorilla. But the hand that held the revolver was yet, for the moment, free. It flashed in, the muzzle pressed against Olive's side. The hand gripped convulsively, forced the hammer up toward its fatal blow.

But now, astonishingly, all movement ceased.

And now again, before the hammer could relax toward the safety catch, before a look almost comically of pudendous annoyance could form on those faces, before the knees of the two could give way and they sink to the earth, there came an explanation of this mystery—in the second in which sound had lagged behind—the far, faint report of the rifle that had laid them low.

Firing from a distance, some one had drilled Ponape Burke through his evil heart.

But, alas, the steel bullet had not stopped, its work performed. It had crashed on through the body of the heroic brown man who fought for her.

The girl shrieked out, fell fainting.

And then, as these three lay, there came a sound of hoofs, and a muddy, foam flecked horse plunged up the village path with John Thurston.

He sprang from his saddle, flung aside the gun, caught the unconscious girl in his arms.

A PROMISE FULFILLED.

When Palmyra at last opened her eyes, she gazed up at John Thurston for a bewildered moment.

The sailors of Japan, on the one hand, the returning natives on the other, stared down at her.

Side by side two bodies lay. Ponape Burke had fallen in a heap. But Olive would have seemed in slumber had it not been for the terrifying little hole of the bullet.

Emotion swept over the girl again.

A naval surgeon rose from examining those two, turned toward Thurston. "Japanese rifle, American hand and eye," he smiled. "An invincible combination—yeps. Pops off a brace with every shot."

Palmyra drew back from John. "O," she wailed, "I cannot bear that it should have been you who killed Olive."

But, "O, no, no, lady," the surgeon interrupted in eager reassurance. "This native man is not dead."

She looked at that form in shuddering question.

"Bullet knocked him out a little," exclaimed the officer, "but it hit nothing to make this big man trouble. He will be something like when the prizefighter gets knocked to sleep on the jaw. If we tie him into bed and sit on him, maybe we keep him there three, four days." He stooped to her level, hands on knees. "You must not get cross with Mr. Thurston," he added, with smiling earnestness. "He had to shoot Olive to save Olive's life. Also yours. There was no other way."

At his first sentence Palmyra's lips had parted in a gasp of relief. Now, in the reaction, she wavered, closed her eyes dizzily, put out toward Thurston a groping hand.

John caught her to him once more to uphold her. His heart was aflame with the knowledge that that pathetic blind groping had been for him. With her face upturned to his, appealing, close, Thurston, in that great yearning so long denied, could not resist; would, despite the grinning audience, have kissed her again and again.

But Commander Sakamoto, of an eye tactful race, was quick with a command which forced his unwilling men to the right-about; then chased the giggling villagers home with the sword of a samurai.

A burial detail had carried Ponape Burke forever away; Ponape, who had staked all—and lost all.

And now men were easing Olive on to a stretcher bound aboard ship. Palmyra opened her eyes once more to discover that an unexpressive brown face was beaming upon her. In Thurston's arms, with a most expressive satisfaction. Then, as the bearers raised the burden to their shoulders, grunted in surprise at its heft, a square hand faltered up to a parting salute—which was like a benediction.

Thus had the first seen the sinewy, sun browned hand with the lace mitt upon it as it came thrusting through the port of the Rainbow's cabin. On that night when the black shadow of Ponape cast itself athwart her path, the hand had been raised, as now, as if in promise that her good gentleness would ever be watchful to protect and to save. The promise fulfilled, he could here at last relinquish her to John Thurston and to happiness.

For Ponape Burke could return no more.

"And when," demanded John of Palmyra on the third day after, "when shall the wedding be?"

"The wedding," ordained the girl, "must take place before we leave the island. I insist, for one thing, despite your protest, because I think I should always have a little afraid—alone. But the real reason"—her voice vibrated with feeling—"is that then Olive, who saved me for you, can be our—best man."

And so it was that O-lee-vay, commonly called Olive, who speaks no language known to civilized man, who eats fat pork with his fingers and anoints himself copiously with scented coconut oil and turmeric, stood up with John Thurston, the embodiment of civilization at its finest.

Thurston could not give the best man a stick pin, for Olive seldom if ever wears a shirt.

But he could see that the islander got Ponape Burke's swift schooner, the Lupe-a-Noa, trusted for the brown man's protection by the American mission and the Japanese navy, and manned by an already eager and worshipping crew.

New Farm Policy Intended To Render United States Independent of All World

Effort Will Be Made To Maintain American Standards by Avoiding European Competition.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, January 30.—The recommendations of President Coolidge's agricultural commission, made public this week, together with a request that congress enact them into law at this session, point toward something new just ahead of us in American politics and business.

Anyone who follows closely the current developments in government and business in America must recognize the beginning of this trend. An essential part of the trend is that government and business, including agriculture, agree upon a new policy. This sympathetic cooperation is itself a definite condition of the era on which we are entering. The purpose of it, as yet, is purely instinctive, and not fully defined even in the minds of all the leaders of it. But it is apparent that government and practically all lines of business in the United States are coming together in an impulse of mutual self-protection to meet the conditions of world trade arising out of the economic rehabilitation of Europe and its increasing activity.

Policy of Withdrawal.

The policy which America is moving toward, as yet gropingly, is one of withdrawing to itself, making itself a self-contained country, and trying to maintain our high standard of living by avoiding the competition in Europe, in either the role of buyer or seller. A fairly certain result of that policy should express itself shortly in advocacy of a tariff that will be protective beyond the previous standards of protective tariffs.

The recommendations of the agricultural commission include this:

"The American farmer can neither compete with imported agricultural products, nor can he compete in foreign markets for the sale of his products at world price levels," created by foreign wages and standards of living. This means that the American farmer is to get out of Europe, both as a buyer and as a seller. That policy runs counter to the former farm leadership, which looked to the revival of Europe as a rival of the market for American farm products.

Protection For Farmer.

Running parallel to this is the theory that the American farmer should, at once have complete protection for his own products and also be tolerant of complete protection for everybody else, the whole looking to a high standard of living for everybody in America.

In the talk that Secretary Hoover made to this same agricultural commission last week, he said we should "maintain a tariff on agricultural products on such a basis as will stimulate domestic production, and, if we add, this may be done on a consequential charge upon the consumer in proportion to his gains from a national policy of this character. The application of tariff principles should provide for agriculture the same value in stimulating domestic production as has been the case in industry. The second direction must be the development of increased domestic consumption of agricultural products per capita of population. This can only take place through development of a higher general buying power. In other words, a higher standard of living of the whole population. In turn, this can only be brought about by the elimination of waste and increase in efficiency in our whole production and distribution system. There is room for 20 per cent or 30 per cent increase in our standards of living today."

Will Protect Manufacturers.

It is inherent in the policy which the agricultural commission recommended that the high standard of living in America, both for farmers and for everybody else, be kept secure by a tariff on manufactures sufficient to safeguard America against competition from abroad. This, too, runs counter to what has been the teaching of the farm leaders.

ing of some farm leaders for years past, namely, that the tariff on manufactures should be revised downward so as to bring about lower prices for what the farmer buys.

This new policy proposed by the agricultural commission looks to two ends. One is that the American farmer should cease to raise any more of any commodity than he can sell in America. To many farmers, it will come as a startling suggestion that he should cease, for example, to raise wheat for export. The cotton-raising states will be surprised at any device to ignore the foreign market. But competent judges in Washington say the rest of the world is already tending to buy less and less of the American cotton crop, and to turn to Russia to supply to countries where it can be raised by lower-priced labor.

Cease To Buy Abroad.

The other end of the new policy is that America should cease to buy any agricultural products from abroad, and that we should adopt tariffs, sufficient to stimulate the raising in America of everything we consume. Presumably, sugar is one of the important products this part of the policy would affect.

This tendency toward America turning in on itself to become a self-contained unit with all the trades mutually protective against Europe is under way in other fields besides farming. Last week C. W. Barron, the owner of several financial journals, spoke of our protective tariff as one "that must be raised unless wages in other countries are raised," and reported that "Belgian rails are refused in the United States at $10 a ton below the domestic price because railroads must protect the American steel industry that give them a large proportion of their traffic. But street railways and building trades may yet bid for foreign steel, unless foreign wages advance or the American tariff is advanced."

It is reasonable to predict that the tariff question is ahead of us in America. One wonders how long it will be before democratic leaders of the old school take notice of this trend.

LEAGUE COUNCIL OPENS PORTS TO S.

Protection For Farmer.

Geneva, January 30.—The door to the council of the league of nations has been swung open to admit the United States. This has been done with the complete approval of a plenipotentiary representative of the United States, whose signature doubtless will be affixed to the agreement when the times comes.

Between the council chamber and an American representative, however, stands the formidable bulk of the United States senate.

A provision was adopted Friday by the league's executive committee whereby the United States would sit in the council along with one other non-member, Germany, for the purpose of nominating seven experts to administer the control of the traffic in narcotics.

The adoption of the international board method of controlling the traffic is regarded as the greatest victory of Stephen G. Porter, the American delegate to the league opium parlays.

Under the provision adopted Friday, the United States would officially and actually participate in the council.

Already the United States has participated in various league commissions and international conferences, while many prominent Americans have accepted important appointments from the league. Among the latter are George W. Wickham, on the commission for the codification of international law; Jeremiah Smith, of Boston, in charge of a reconstruction committee; and C. P. Howland, of New York, a member of the commission settling the Greek refugee problem.

THIRD MIKE IN PRICES OF GASOLINE IS MADE

New York, January 30.—Gasoline prices in several sections of the country were raised a cent a gallon and crude oil from 15 to 35 cents a barrel by another series of advances announced today by important companies. The increases, which are the third to be initiated this month, are expected to become general throughout the country tomorrow.

The new gasoline price schedules were announced by the Standard Oil companies of New York, New Jersey and Indiana, the Gulf Oil company and the Humble Oil and Refining company. The changes established new tank-wagon prices of 19 1/2 cents a gallon in New York and New England; 17 cents a gallon in Chicago; 15 cents a gallon in New Jersey and 18 cents a gallon in Maryland.

The Prairie Oil and Gas company initiated the advance of 15 to 35 cents a barrel in crude oil, which was followed by the Sinclair Oil Refining company and the Texas company. The Standard Oil company of Louisiana, increased the price of crude 25 cents a barrel.

CRUDE OIL PRICE ADVANCES ARE MADE.

Dallas, Texas, January 30.—Increases in the price of crude oil from 15 to 35 cents per barrel in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas were announced today by the Magnolia Petroleum company, making the second increase in seven days, the first having been on January 23.

MEMPHIS CENTERS BIG COTTON ACREAGE

Memphis, Tenn., January 30.—Memphis has become headquarters for the largest cotton plant acreage in the United States, it became known today, when L. J. Salsbury announced that companies which he controls had taken over 9,500 acres in Arkansas and Mississippi, owned by the Jennings interests, and the 9,000 acre Henderson plantation in Louisiana. Mr. Salsbury has recently become identified with former Governor P. O. Lowden, of Illinois, in the conduct of a large plantation holding company, operating 32,000 acres of cotton land in Arkansas.

Mr. Salsbury is president of an English combine controlling 35,000 acres of cotton land in the Mississippi delta, which ship the cotton produced directly to their mills in the United Kingdom.

BIRTHS INCREASE IN LAURENS COUNTY

Dublin, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Eight hundred and thirteen births and 455 deaths registered with the county health office white exceeded, colored: 283 white, 159 male and 134 female; 455 deaths, 225 white and 230 colored. Pneumonia took the lead as 65 deaths from this cause, 8 white and 27 colored. Stillbirths ranked second, 54 babies born dead, 21 white and 33 colored. 22 premature births, white 15 and 7 colored. 20 deaths from diarrhoea, under two years of age, 13 white and 7 colored. Only one suicide from firearms, white. One suicide from poison, white. Accidental deaths, one, seven homicides from firearms, colored.

Laurens county has a death rate of 11.5 for 1924, which is a credit to the south. Her birth rate is 21.2 which shows Laurens county's health condition will compare with any county in the state.

S. A. MARKETT DIES AT PLAINS HOME

Americus, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—A number of American friends attended the funeral Thursday of S. A. Market, who died after following an illness of some time. Interment was in Plains cemetery, with six nephews of the deceased acting as pallbearers. The obsequies were conducted by Rev. O. L. Evans, pastor of Plains Methodist church, assisted by Rev. J. E. Hall, pastor of Baptist church, and Rev. Charles A. Phillips, pastor of Lutheran church.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. B. Singletary, of Brunswick; a brother, J. W. Market, of Los Angeles, and a sister, Mrs. W. S. Moore, of Plains, besides a number of nieces and relatives who reside in this state and Florida.

Non-Skid Teeth Coming! Make All Steaks in High

BY KENNETH L. EAGON. Ball-tired, puncture-proof teeth—positively guaranteed as non-skid, gum-tread, grabbers—win the last gasp of gas from the 1925 dentist's agony alcove. Can you imagine a tuskless shik throwing his food garage into neutral?

The new rubber-tread teeth, the principle of the ball-tire has been adapted to modern dentistry by Dr. Whitcomb, and the artificial set of teeth is fitted into a rubber tread cushion. One can readily imagine that this will be a great boon to conversation. With the added resiliency, the jaws can be worked much faster and much more chatter can be turned out in a given time.

Dr. William Bebb, curator of the department of dentistry of Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., has a unique exhibit of the first crude "instruments of torture," employed by barbers, who used to tinker with the dental fixtures before dentistry became a profession.

Atlanta, Georgia, was held up before the delegates to this national convention as showing the way to all of the United States in dental progress in city schools.

Taxpayers of Chicago could be saved $2,500 a day if the system of dental examinations and treatment in effect in the school system were adopted by the Chicago school board, Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools in Atlanta, told delegates.

"Absenteeism from the school board $5,000 a day, I am informed," said Professor Sutton. "Half of these absences could be traced directly to defective teeth they were in."

The convention unanimously voted to try out Dr. Sutton's suggestions. Dr. Dan U. Cameron, of New York, reported that more than 150,000 people in the United States die of heart trouble every year, and "every single one of these deaths can be attributed to secondary infection arising from faulty teeth."

And coasting home over a steak that only a mother could love? "Won't it be hard on the joy-and-laziness, who must an inner tube every time they pull a regulation smile."

And what's going to happen to the tired babies? They'll have a blow-out every time they yawn for a cross-word puzzle, despite the fact that the Jennings interests, and the 9,000 acre Henderson plantation in Louisiana.

Mr. Salsbury has recently become identified with former Governor P. O. Lowden, of Illinois, in the conduct of a large plantation holding company, operating 32,000 acres of cotton land in Arkansas.

Mr. Salsbury is president of an English combine controlling 35,000 acres of cotton land in the Mississippi delta, which ship the cotton produced directly to their mills in the United Kingdom.

BIRTHS INCREASE IN LAURENS COUNTY

Dublin, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Eight hundred and thirteen births and 455 deaths registered with the county health office white exceeded, colored: 283 white, 159 male and 134 female; 455 deaths, 225 white and 230 colored. Pneumonia took the lead as 65 deaths from this cause, 8 white and 27 colored. Stillbirths ranked second, 54 babies born dead, 21 white and 33 colored. 22 premature births, white 15 and 7 colored. 20 deaths from diarrhoea, under two years of age, 13 white and 7 colored. Only one suicide from firearms, white. One suicide from poison, white. Accidental deaths, one, seven homicides from firearms, colored.

Laurens county has a death rate of 11.5 for 1924, which is a credit to the south. Her birth rate is 21.2 which shows Laurens county's health condition will compare with any county in the state.
